Make the Army a School.
A Job for Lindbergh.
Trotzky and His Sorrow.
Not Enough Diamonds.

—By Arthur Brisbane—

DWIGHT F. DAVIS, Secretary of War, is to be congratulated on happier conditions in the army, as proved by the great increase in re-enlistment. Men, once in the army, want to stay there.

The nation has two schools for training officers, West Point and Annapolis. Why not make the army itself a great training school for fliers? Young men all want to fly. No higher mathematics, Greek or Latin is necessary, only a flying machine and an intelligent teacher.

Fliers should get extra pay. From the army they should be graduated to commercial flying, and especially to postoffice flying. That is the way to make army life attractive, and useful to the nation. One thousand fliers might be worth many billions of dollars to this country.

At last, real news of Trotzky, walking up and down in Constantinople, free to do as he pleases—except that he musn't leave Constantinople. And Turkish newspapers are forbidden to mention his name. Rather hard on a public man.

Looking over the Bosphorous, one of the finest prospects that the world affords, Trotzky probably indulges in a bitter mood.

Long ago the Roman emperors established themselves there on the border line between Europe and Asia, and for centuries it was supposed that Constantinople would be the center of the world. The Mediterranean is now a lake and the Atlantic is yielding first place to the Pacific.

Trotzky must think of days when it was supposed that he, Trotzky, would be the center of the great Russian people. In revolution glory fades quickly.

Patriotic ladies present to Mrs. Coolidge a souvenir of her admirable "kindness and graciousness while hostess of the White House."

The souvenir contains 200 diamonds.

Two hundred thousand diamonds would not be too many, except that Mrs. Coolidge cares nothing for jewelry, wears practically none.

If a gentlemen's committee, emulating the intelligent ladies' committee, tried to give Calvin Coolidge as many dollars as he has earned, he would be the richest man in the world with plenty to spare.

In certain lines, modern civilization is efficient, although it does not know how to stop bootlegging or discourage wholesale crime.

At 2:15 p. m. yesterday, in New York, on Fourth ave., in the silk district near 20th st., a yellow taxicab caught fire. Two minutes later the air was full of strange noises, coming from every direction. Several fire engines, two enormous hook and ladder trucks, one chemical fire engine, three automobiles bringing fire chiefs, and other apparatus concentrated on that little yellow taxi. It never dreamed that it could be so important.

Six firemen in rubber coats, with six iron hooks, jerked the hood off the engine, and that fire was a thing of the past.

Then all the apparatus, sirens howling, returned whence it had come, with all the dignity of the angel messenger that Dante describes, coming to rebuke the presumptuous fiends and returning.

A "social leader" died in Palm Beach yesterday, and from Miami there came news that Jack Dempsey had escaped death, thanks to the bad aim of an intruder in his house.

Newspapers, as you notice this morning, give 10 times as much space to Dempsey, alive and well, as to the social leader, dead and cold. And that's good journalism.

Newspapers should tell people about things that interest them. A good newspaper is an accurate mirror, not a preacher.

Chicago doesn't like the suggestion that New York time should become Chicago time. During daylight saving, Chicago would have to put the clock ahead two hours.

Chicago says: "We get up early now. Let New York adopt our time. They take life comfortably there, and it doesn't matter much when they get up."

PUT ALMA RUBENS IN HOSPITAL

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 26—Alma Rubens, film star suffering from drug addiction, was committed to the State Hospital for Narcotic Addicts at Spadra, Cal., to undergo treatment.

This action followed a midnight hearing in Superior court before Judge Marshall McComb.

Reports that Miss Ruben's condition is critical had been emphatically denied by her mother in Hollywood, who also denied a report that the actress will be called before a federal government board as a witness in an investigation of the Southern California drug traffic.

Adams to Sell the Bruins?

Frank Patrick, Pacific coast hockey star, will soon buy the Boston Bruins from Charles F. Adams, present owner.

Patrick today offered a substantial sum for a 60-day option, which would give him the privilege of buying the local sextet, and Adams will, in all probability, accept the offer, according to Frank Ryan, secretary of the club.

The news that Adams is considering disposing of his franchise comes as a big surprise to local fans. He has made a fortune in hockey. It is said other business interests make it imperative that he sever his connection with the sport.

Tunney and Bride to Visit in Egypt

Rome, Feb. 26 (INS)—Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, and his bride, "Polly" Lauder Tunney, are going to Egypt and Tunis for a visit. They left today for Naples, where, it is understood, they will embark upon shipboard for the Levant.

WAR CHIEF DYING IN FRANCE

Paris, Feb. 26 (AP).—The Associated Press was informed authoritatively today that the condition of Marshal Ferdinand Foch is considered hopeless and that his death was only a question of days—one week or 10 days at the most.

The informant, in a grief-stricken tone and with tears welling up in his eyes, reluctantly admitted that the 77-year-old generalissimo of the allied armies, who has been struggling against a complication of diseases for the past month, probably has fought his last fight.

The marshal's temperature rose to 101.6 at noon today and his weakness is becoming alarming, each pulmonary attack bringing the famous soldier lower and lower.

"Can the marshal be saved?" the informant was asked.

"I fear not. We must not forget that the soldier is nearing 78."

Officially hope has not been abandoned for the famous soldier, and at least one of his doctors is

48-Hour Bill Killed in New Hampshire

Concord, N. H., Feb. 26 (AP)—By a rollcall vote of 26 to 126, the New Hampshire House of Representatives today killed a bill to establish a 48-hour working week for women and minors. In 1923 a similar bill was passed by the House, but was defeated in the Senate.

JUDGES REFUSE TO JAIL RUM SELLERS FOR LIFE

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 26 (AP)—Judge Vincent M. Brennan of Wayne County (Detroit) Circuit Court told the state senate he would resign from the bench rather than impose a life sentence on a person convicted of four liquor felonies. Conviction of four felonies make a life sentence mandatory under Michigan law.

Judge Brennan was joined in his attack on the liquor-felony clause of the Michigan crime code by Judge Alfred J. Murphy, also of Wayne County, who urged the Legislature to make a disstinction between crimes.

"In actual practice we find the prohibition law in most cases strikes at the weak and unwary," Judge Brennan said. He added that he would not change the fourth offender act as it applies to "crimes of violence or moral turpitude."

IN FIRST 'GUN GIRL' TRIAL

Mrs. Bathina Massarelli, 20, first woman to ever face charges in Greater Boston of armed robbery, went on trial today charged with the armed holdup of a chain store in Everett. She is alleged to have robbed the manager of $204. An alibi is her defense.

CLERK IDENTIFIES GIRL IN $204 PISTOL HOLDUP

For the first time in the history of Middlesex courts, a woman went on trial today in Superior Criminal session charged with armed robbery, the maximum penalty for which is life imprisonment, when the jury was drawn in the case of Mrs. Bettina Massarelli, 20, of Dedham.

Tall, slim, attractive, with titian hair, she listened calmly while the government introduced evidence to support its contention that on Dec. 3 she robbed the manager of an Everett chain store of $204 at the point of a gun.

Dist. Atty. Robert T. Bushnell prosecuted the case, and the de-

Less than an hour before the time he is alleged to have slain Joseph Fantasia in the North End, Samuel Gallo was in an East Boston furniture store, it was testified by a witness today in Superior Court at the opening of the defense for Gallo.

According to Charles Stuart, a salesman in the store, Gallo used the name of "Servero Romano" when he bought furniture a year before at which time he was accompanied by Philomena Romano, 22, of East Boston.

SULLIVAN SAID HE WAS BEING 'BLED TO DEATH,' SIDLINGER TESTIFIES

Albert Sidlinger, on trial in Superior Court charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice, testified today that he was told by John F. Sullivan, proprietor of the Ritz Hotel, Columbus ave., that Sullivan paid nearly $30,000 to Oliver B. Garrett, leader of the police headquarters liquor raiders.

Sidlinger complained that he was "a victim of a wicked conspiracy on the part of Police Officers Garrett, Timmins and Tiernan," but under cross-examination he could cite no trouble he had ever had with them.

"So you were a victim of three men with whom you never had any trouble," commented Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Doyle.

Referring to his first meeting with Sullivan, the witness-defendant testified:

"He told me he had given Garrett almost $30,000. Also that he was being bled to death, that he would have to turn the key in the door; that he was an old man and a cripple and every dollar he had was in the hotel."

Relating another alleged conversation, Sidlinger said: "Sullivan told me that on the 14th of April Mr. Garrett came in and demanded $500 and that he, Sullivan, replied: 'I will give you no $500; I have a former U. S. district attorney and a former district attorney of Suffolk County to look after me now, and he is going to stop this.'

"Sullivan said Garrett replied: 'I'll show you how good your district attorney is. I'm going to raid this place now.'

"He said there was $4500 worth of liquor on the fifth floor. He said he had given Garrett $2000 at seven different times, making a total of $14,000 he had given him.

"Sullivan said this fellow, Garrett, owned property in Middlesex County, Plymouth County and Norfolk County, that was bought with the money he gave him."

Sidlinger at this point took a sheaf of notes from his pocket and, in reply to a query, explained that these were notes he made following the talk with Sullivan. The witness continued:

"He said he paid Officer Tiernan

3 DEAD IN HUB STORM; TRAFFIC LINES ARE HIT

Today's brief snow storm, before it turned to rain shortly after noon, brought death to three persons and severe injury to a fourth in Massachusetts and caused traffic tie-ups and minor accidents throughout New England.

One man in Boston and one in Palmer were killed by being struck by automobiles in the blinding snow; one Boston man died of exposure; and one Quincy man was dangerously hurt when knocked down by a motor car.

While rain promised by the weather bureau was delayed in making its appearance, swirling flakes and rising gales were driving North Atlantic shipping to port,

'SLASHER' GETS 26TH GIRL IN TROLLEY CAR

The 26th victim of a "slasher" was reported today when Mrs. Margaret Peterson, 35, of 33 Henry st., Dorchester, told the police her raccoon coat was cut in two places on a Norfolk st. trolley car.

The latest attack, the first to occur on a trolley car, was staged at Columbia rd. and Washington st., Dorchester, according to Mrs. Peterson, who was on her way to work.

She said that a man of swarthy appearance had pushed her as she stood in the car, and that when she left it she discovered her coat had been cut in the back and on the left sleeve.

Mrs. Peterson described the man as being about 40 years, five feet eight inches tall, 150 pounds in weight, dark complexion, wearing

GIRL WITH 'ASTHMA' FINDS IT EASY TO BUY DRUGS IN LOS ANGELES

JUST ASKS DOCTOR FOR IT

By A. M. ROCHLEN

Los Angeles, Feb. 26—Dope for sale.

Deadly, habit-forming drugs can be had in Los Angeles or any other California city almost for the asking.

Investigators for the Los Angeles Examiner, co-operating with inspectors for the State Board of Pharmacy and the Board of Medical Examiners, were able to obtain large doses of morphine in "trouble-proof" legal containers, with less trouble and expense than it takes to buy a pint of bonded whiskey.

All that was necessary to get this supply of narcotics—enough to form a habit and leave wreck and ruin in its path—was to follow the venomous trail of a confessed dope pedlar, who, this morning, must face arraignment in Federal court on charges of violating the Harrison Narcotic Act.

GOES TO DOCTOR

It cost "Miss Lucille Bland" Examiner investigator just $2.35 to get 20 quarter grain tablets of morphine.

"Miss Bland" obtained the morphine on a prescription written for her by a Los Angeles physician. She walked into his office, a stranger, told him she had been a user of narcotics and wanted some morphine for relief from asthma.

The doctor made a brief examination, wrote a prescription for five grains of the drug and charged her $1.50 for the visit. It cost only 85 cents to fill the prescription and the entire transaction was closed.

Before going to the physician's office, the young woman assured the officers that she is not and never has been a sufferer from asthma.

Frank Olea, Mexican, 27 charged with being a pedlar and with three previous arrests on narcotic charges in his record, started the trail that led to the Los Angeles doctor's office.

PEDLAR TRAILED

Olea was arrested after officers said he passed the cubes of morphine to an informant and received $10 in marked money. Olea said he obtained his supply of morphine on a prescription. He said:

"I just told the doctor I had been a user and started again because I needed the stuff for asthma. I got his name from another user. First I got 15 grains. The next time he gave me a 30-grain prescription. I used a little and then I sold the rest."

He declared he had obtained four prescriptions at $1.50 each.

The Examiner decided to check up on this man's story.

"Miss Bland"—an assumed name for the purpose of this investigation—was sent to the office of the doctor mentioned.

The young woman had never seen him. He never laid eyes on her before.

She said the doctor made a very brief examination of her chest.

Private Submarine Attached for $3000

Bridgeport, Feb. 26 (INS). The Defender, the only privately-owned submarine in the world, valued at $500,000, has been attached to cover a $3000 claim. The attachment order was secured by Bridgeport Dredge & Dock Company. The sub belongs to Simon Lake, its inventor, and Capt. Sloan Danenhower, salvage expert.

Washington, Feb. 26 (AP)—Favorable reports have been made by a Senate judiciary sub-committee on the nominations of Irvine L. Store is owned by Jacob Herman. Ward is shown in picture.

CONGRESS' AID IS ASKED IN DRUG WAR

Washington, Feb. 26—On behalf of the women and children of America, a forceful appeal has been made to Congress to save the country from the grasp of dope.

The plea came from Mrs. Florence Kahn, congresswoman from California, and Miss Ellen M. Lamotte, world-famous authority and author of several books on the opium traffic. Miss Lamotte has just returned from the sessions of the League of Nations' opium conference in Geneva.

Both joined yesterday in urging that the House promptly adopt the LaGuardia-Wheeler resolution for a congressional narcotics investigation. The measure passed the Senate unanimously and is now before the House rules committee for a report. Representative Snell, Republican, of New York, chairman, promised the committee would consider the question, but no date was set for a hearing. Unless action is prompt, the resolution may be lost in the last-minute legislative jam that threatens Congress before adjournment next Monday.

NO GREATER MENACE

"No greater menace confronts any people than drug addiction," said Mrs. Kahn. "Reports from all over the country indicate that addiction is prevalent in all walks of life. Through drugs the criminal classes are stimulated with false courage that enables them to commit the most atrocious crimes. Among people of intellect and wealth and leadership, the use of drugs has become an all too frequent occurrence.

"Pitiful are the stories of young boys and girls enmeshed in the tentacles of this most vicious and diabolical habit. Once a slave to the habit, they sink rapidly down the moral scale into degradation, misery and oblivion.

"No debauchery in all history was ever half so miserable, so destructive of all the finer qualities of life, as the debauch of youth through morphine, heroin, cocaine and their sinister allies.

ILL-GOTTEN GAINS.

"Ruination for a filthy pittance. What cares the drug pedlar for the rosy bloom and promise of youth? Nothing! He is interested only in his fabulous, ill-gotten gains.

"We must choke this dope monster ere we are engulfed and our boys and girls, in whom the future of the nation rests, are debauched and ruined."

The purposes of the investigation were praised by Miss Lamotte.

"I think such an inquiry will develop great beneficial results," she declared. "It should be authorized. I think all the light possible should be thrown on the terrible drug menace. In this way only, can the people learn the dangers and ravages of the traffic."

Western Kansas for Being '49th State'

Topeka, Kans., Feb. 26 (AP)—Division of Kansas and establishment of the western half as the forty-ninth state in the Union is proposed in a resolution prepared for introduction in the State Legislature.

Failure of the Legislature to reapportion the senatorial districts every five years, as provided in the Kansas constitution is pointed out in the resolution. The document charges that no such reapportionment has been made for 28 years, despite repeated efforts by the western part of the State.

3 Cheers for P. O.! Took 8½ Years to Deliver Bill

James H. Henderson of 1320 Beacon st., Brookline, today received a letter mailed to him on August 7, 1920.

It contained a bill from the Edison Electric Illuminating Co. for $2.19 for electric service. A duplicate bill was sent and paid shortly after the original disappeared.

The Postal department offered no explanation as to the long delay in delivery.

FLOOD IN WAKE OF TORNADO

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 26 (INS)—A new menace—floods—today imperilled lives in the storm-stricken areas of Mississippi and Arkansas, where there are already 31 known dead, scores injured and untold property damage.

Streams throughout the section, reports stated, were swelling to the danger mark, after the most terrific rain in years which followed in the wake of storms.

Some of the smaller rivers were already leaving their banks, and inundating small communities and outlying plantations, it was said, forcing many persons to flee.

Parts of the low, swampy area around the stricken village of Duncan, Miss., were rising and threatened to creep upon the deluged town, which has been without light or water since it was struck by a tornado. Twenty-one were killed by the tornado here.

The twister struck two other towns in Mississippi. At Alligator, six miles away, two persons were killed and five injured. At Marks, Miss., in the same area, two other lives were claimed.

Two persons were killed at Van, Ark.; two at Grand Prairie, Tex., and two at Cooper, Tex., by twisters earlier in the day.

On a plantation near Darling, Miss., two unidentified negroes were killed. Two others were crushed to death near Dewitt, Ark., when their farm home was demolished.

About the same time Special Officer Morrissey of Division 4 arrested a man who was acting suspiciously in the Boylston st. station of the Washington tunnel. Morrissey acted when the suspect jostled a woman.

Earlier in the day Ralph Rapucci, 35, of Sheaf st., North End, was arrested on a Washington st. tunnel train, charged with assault and battery on an unidentified woman by Special Officers Dwyer and Lynch of Division 2.

GALLO'S 'ALIBI' OFFERED; NEW GIRL IN CASE

der date, June 11, 1927, was to make a payment on furniture, the salesman testified. When the payment was made, Gallo, according to the salesman, was accompanied by a different woman.

The furniture, Stuart declared, was delivered to a Maverick st., East Boston, address, under the name "Romano."

BOOKS IN COURT

In cross-examination Stuart admitted that, while he could name the day and almost the exact hour of Gallo's visit to the furniture store on the murder date, he could not give the hour or date of 11 previous visits made to the store by Gallo.

Stuart said he first heard of the murder case four or five weeks ago when approached by a woman he "understood" to be Mrs. Gallo. Then Stuart admitted he could not recall the exact date when the woman approached him.

William L. Hirshberg, proprietor of the furniture store, a resident of Brookline, produced the store's cash book, but said he did not know Gallo. He showed an entry in the cash book under date of June 11, 1927, and marked "Romano—Paid—$100."

ACCOUNT IS CHANGED.

The account under the name "Romano" was later changed to read "Gallo," according to Hirshberg, but he did not know the reason for the change.

Fred Sullo of Malden, the next witness, testified he introduced Cero to Gallo in 1926. Cero lived with Sullo for several days, the latter said, and Cero helped Sullo move to Malden in the same year.

Witness admitted, however, in cross-examination, that Cero never had been in Malden until 1927.

Q.—Were you with Gallo when he was stopped in Hanover st.? A—Yes.

Q.—Was Fantasia there? A.—No.

Q.—Who cut Gallo? A.— know.

SAYS GIRL CUT HIM.

Q.—Well, who cut him? A.—Philomena Romano.

Q.—Well, you said Fantasia was not there? A.—No, he was not there; he was in the car.

Q.—But you knew Philomena and knew she kept company with Gallo? A.—Yes.

Q.—When did they stop keeping company? A.—Just before the cutting, in March, 1927.

In his opening for the defense William E. McSweeney told the jury he would prove Gallo was not in the North End at the time set by the prosecution as the murder hour.

The counsel asserted also he would show business relationship between Gallo and Gangi Cero, who is already under sentence of death in the same alleged crime.

The Commonwealth rested its case against Gallo before noon, with Cosimo Cero, brother of the condemned man, as the last prosecution witness.

He testified that he came to Boston last November to work in the interests of his brother and that, although only a dock laborer and possessing but $17, he had been able to interest many people in the fight to clear Gangi.

William H. McSweeney, counsel for Gallo, cross-examined Cosimo Cero briefly, but Cosimo stolidly stood by his declaration that he had detailed only truths relative to what he had learned about the murder and that he fought to save his brother because he believed an injustice was being done.

FIRST GUNGIRL TRIAL STARTS BEFORE JURY

fense was represented by Atty. Florence F. Sullivan.

GIRL HAD PISTOL

The first and chief witness for the prosecution was William E. O'Connell, manager of the store who was the victim of the holdup.

O'Connell identified Mrs. Massareili as the girl who entered his store shortly after he had opened it on December 3. He said she wore a raccoon coat and was accompanied by a man who asked for a bag of coke.

The witness said he went to a back room and when he returned with the bag of coke in his arms the girl thrust a revolver at him and told him to put up his hands. O'Connell said her accomplice then tied his hands, and after taking money from the cash register, searched his pockets. O'Connell begged that his own funds be left as he said he had to pay his board.

He quoted the girl as saying: "Sock him one," and her companion carried out her command by striking O'Connell on the mouth and knocking out four teeth. He then tossed O'Connell into a coal closet, after the girl told him he was lucky to be alive, according to the witness.

O'Connell said he was aided in his identification by the girl's sweet voice, beautiful teeth and quick walk.

Attorney Sullivan, in his opening for the defense, said he would prove a complete alibi. Fifteen defense witnesses were sworn in.

Rex Adams Is Bailed by Juanita Hansen

He had been locked up since Wednesday, when he was arrested on a charge of feloniously assaulting Lawrence Mitchell, house detective at the Hotel de France.

THREE DEAD IN STORM; SNOW HITS TRAFFIC

storm warnings were flying from Sandy Hook to Portland, and Massachusetts auto drivers were finding operating conditions dangerous.

Bad weather appeared everywhere on the United States meteorological map. The Middle West and South were being swept by drenching rains and thaws.

Boston's first storm fatality was the death of John Kivell, truck driver, of Orange ct., Lynn.

He was hit and instantly killed by a small sedan which skidded on the rails on Commercial st., near North End Park.

Saul Terr of Harvard st., Dorchester who, police say, was driving the sedan, was arrested and charged with manslaughter.

The victim was an overseas veteran and the father of three children. His wife died recently.

The second Boston death reported was that of an unidentified man, 70 years old, who was picked up on Broadway, South End, suffering from exposure. He was dead upon arrival at City Hospital.

He was five feet eight inches tall, had gray hair, a gray moustache and blue eyes. He wore a gray overcoat, gray trousers, a brown jacket and brown shoes.

At Palmer another unidentified man lost his life. He was hit by an automobile driven by Reuben Kligman of Newtonville.

At Quincy, William W. Cushing, veteran tender of the Fore River drawbridge, was knocked down by a car driven by Mrs. Alice Coughlin of Middle st., North Weymouth. He was taken to Quincy Hospital, where his name was placed on the danger list. He is 65.

All three auto accidents were caused by blinding snow and by slippery going, according to police.

Forecast for Boston: Rain tonight and probably Wednesday morning. Rising temperature. Fresh to strong south and southeast winds.

In Ritz Case

ANNA M. WALSH

Who testified today in the Hotel Ritz alleged conspiracy case. She was stenographer for the mysterious Lawler "H," now dead.

Sidlinger Names Garrett in 'Plot'

$10 a week while he was patrolling the beat and paid him $25 a week after he was made a special officer."

Sidlinger then said that Sullivan called on him at a Boston hotel last December, more than eight months after the raid on the Ritz Hotel, which eventuated in the present trial. Witness said he at first refused to see the caller, but later, on advice of his attorney, received Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan, in the presence of a man named Regan.

According to Sidlinger, Sullivan said on this occasion:

"A lot of your friends are my friends and they tell me you are a pretty good fellow. They blame me at the United States court for 'H's' death and blame me for all your sickness and trouble. I want to try to make things right. I want you to go to your friends, because I don't want to go to them in person."

Sidlinger at that time was under indictment on the charge upon which he is now being tried. Sullivan has appeared at the trial as a government witness against Sidlinger and the other defendants, Nicholas Cockinos and Ralph Gross. Cockinos is a Watch and Ward Society agent. The "Mr. H." referred to was a lawyer, now dead, whose name has figured prominently in testimony.

"I said to Mr. Sullivan," continued Sidlinger, "if you will go to the office of the district attorney of Suffolk County and clear my name I will go to these friends, as you ask, and will tell them anything that will help you."

First Met Sullivan in the Offices of Lawyer 'H'

"I said to him, 'Mr. Sullivan, why did you bring me into this thing?' He said, 'I was told by Arthur Timmins (a police officer) that you were a secret member of the Watch and Ward Society.'

"I said, 'I don't belong to the Watch and Ward Society and they have no connection with me whatsoever. What was the idea of bringing me down to Albany st. at 3 o'clock that morning for a meeting with you?' He said, 'I was told to do it by the police.' I said, 'What police?' Sullivan replied, 'Officers Timmins and Tiernan.'"

Sidlinger said he first met Sullivan in "H's" office when the lawyer asked him, Sidlinger, to make an investigation of the circumstances of the Ritz hotel liquor cases. The hotel had been raided and five waiters arrested.

The government charges that Cockinos caused this raid and that later representations were made to Sullivan that by paying a certain sum he could obtain "protection" through an arrangement made with the police. The government contends the police were innocent and that their names were used merely to influence Sullivan.

Sidlinger explained the early morning meeting with Sullivan by saying the hotel man telephoned to "H.'s" house for an appointment. "H." was dying of pneumonia. Sidlinger was there and offered to go to the Ritz Hotel and see Sullivan, whereupon the latter insisted on meeting outside. Sidlinger denied warning Sullivan his body would be found in the Charles if he talked about the meeting.

Miss Marion Raymington, a worker for the Consumers' League of Massachusetts, and Miss Mildred Towle, social worker at the Denison House, testified that they visited the Ritz Hotel in connection with the original liquor investigation.

Dr. F. L. Novak told of "H.'s" illness.

Miss Anna M. Walsh, an attractive girl of 21, testified she worked for "H." as a stenographer for about four years, and that Sidlinger, while not associated with the lawyer, was accustomed to drop in about once a week until last March, when his visits became daily ones.

She recalled writing a letter which "H." addressed to John F. Mullen, a defendant in the present case who has pleaded guilty. This is a letter Mullen is alleged to have delivered to Sullivan, "guaranteeing immunity from penalty in the courts.

Former Representative John Sheehan, resident of the South End district, was another witness. He was a clerk in "H.'s" office.

Before Sidlinger took the witness stand Raymond L. Perry of Bartlett st., Malden, former Watch and Ward investigator, made a correction in testimony he had previously given. Then, under grilling by Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederic T. Doyle, Perry admitted having talked with Cockinos, who, he said, showed him where he was in error.

Judge Forbids Showing of Liquor in Courtroom

Producing a black bag, Attorney George A. Douglass, counsel for Cockinos, asked Perry if the liquor he had purchased from a sixth waiter, who was not caught, was in it.

Perry said he could not say, unless he looked in the bag, whereupon Judge Quinn ruled it was unnecessary to show any liquor in the courtroom.

Witness then said he had bought liquor from a sixth waiter on February 10, 1928, and that subsequently a warrant was obtained for his arrest.

"Yesterday you told us six warrants were obtained on March 22, didn't you?" asked Doyle.

"I don't recall," said Perry.

"Have you been talking with somebody about this case since yesterday?"

"Yes."

"Who was it?"

"Mr. Cockinos last night called a mistake to my attension."

Doyle then produced a warrant for the sixth waiter dated April 16. The date of issuance is important in the government's story of the alleged plot and Cockinos' alleged part in it.

NAB WITNESS IN RUM CASE

While testifying as a defense witness in a liquor case in Somerville court today, Merrill H. Field of Madison st., Somerville, was ordered arrested on a warrant charging him with illegal transportation of liquor. He was arraigned on that charge, pleaded not guilty and his case was continued to next Monday for trial.

Field was testifying for Hector Perozzi, charged with keeping and exposing liquor for sale at a Somerville ave. address. He told of driving Perozzi and Fred Corbett in his machine from Somerville to Main st., Medford, where Corbett obtained liquor.

The witness said he then drove the two men to Perozzi's house, where Sergt. Sherry and two officers appeared, one of them taking a bottle from Corbett's pocket.

Perozzi denied he had any liquor for sale, but Sergt. Sherry testified to seizing two other bottles of liquor and a bottle of alcohol. Judge Sturtevant held Perozzi in $1000 for the grand jury.

"Took a Chance" to Wear $18,000 Gems; Robber Got 'Em

Chicago, Feb. 26 (AP)—Mrs. Laura Price had not worn her jewels this winter, fearing theft. Then she decided to take a chance—and was robbed.

She had stopped to consult her modiste and was about to reenter her car when a man with a pistol snatched the two strands of pearls from her neck, a diamond bracelet from her wrist and three diamond rings from her finger, yanked the mink coat from her back and drove away.

Her husband said the gems and coat could not be duplicated for less than $18,350.

PANIC AVERTED BY CONNERY

Washington, Feb. 26 (INS)—A quick-thinking on the part of Representative William P. Connery, Jr., of Massachusetts, probably avoided what might have developed into a general stampede from the Fox Theater Sunday night when a curtain on the rear of the stage caught fire.

Connery, seated midway in the theater, noticed a glow on the screen and saw sparks falling from the fly loft. A number of women and children also noticed the blaze and started from their seats.

Connery jumped to his feet and by shouting to those near him quieted the fears of the nervous who were milling about and ready to run for the exits.

FIRESTONE TELLS HOW HE TRANSFORMED LIBERIA

PROTEST GASOLINE TAXES

Indignant motorists swarmed into the office of State Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long today, protesting bitterly the receipt of bills for taxes on stored gasoline which they did not own when the new law went into effect.

Then contend that persons who no longer have containers received bills for $10 tax on 500 gallons of gasoline; others with only a gallon or two in the tanks of their cars were sent similar bills, while in some instances those who do not even own automobiles were taxed.

It was stated that out of 3500 Springfield residents who received bills for stored gasoline 1800 no longer were in business, their permits having lapsed some time ago.

WILL CANCEL TAXES

Tax Commissioner Long blamed the clerks of cities and towns for laxity, and stated that tax bills would be cancelled on the word of citizens that they did not possess gasoline in quantities at midnight of December 31 last.

While this statement removed the principal cause for complaint, considerable criticism of the tax collectors' offices was heard on the ground that many citizens had made long and unnecessary journeys to the State House to establish the fact they were unjustly taxed.

In this connection Commissioner Long added that citizens living outside Boston may mail their tax bills to him with the written statement that they did not possess gasoline in taxable quantities and he will cancel them.

Long said that on December 26 he sent out 48,000 letters to persons who, according to the records of city and town clerks, had permits to store or sell gasoline.

SENT BILLS TO ALL.

He said that 4000 failed to reply, with the result that he was forced to send them bills on the assumption they owned containers holding 500 gallons of gasoline. He stated that cities and towns do not keep records of the amounts which containers hold.

Commissioner Long admitted that in sending bills to the 4000 who failed to reply to his letter asking for the amount of gasoline or benzine they had on hand, his department had proceeded on the assumption that they possessed 500 gallons.

RADIO PRESS WILL RIVAL NEWSPAPERS

Washington, Feb. 26 (INS)—Announcing plans for a new dissemination system in direct competition with the newspapers, an organization known as the National Radio Press Association, of New York, today applied to the Federal Radio Commission for use of the 20 intra-continental high frequency channels recently set aside for the press associations and newspapers.

The company was said to be capitalized at $1,000,000 and prepared to erect transmitting stations in New York, Washington, Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Philadelphia and other large cities.

Representatives of the organization will appear before the commission March 7 when the question of allocation to news agencies will be reopened as a result of a protest of the Hearst newspapers that they did not receive an equitable share of the channels.

22 INJURED IN TRAIN CRASH

Coatesville, Pa., Feb. 26 (AP)—Twenty-two persons were injured, two seriously, at Laurel, 10 miles from here, today, in a collision of a Reading Co. gasoline passenger car and a Reading wrecking train.

Most of the injured were workmen going to their place of employment.

The wrecking train was proceeding to Laurel to remove debris from the tracks caused by the derailment of a freight train when the passenger car rammed into the rear of the wrecking train, telescoping the cars.

Nearly all of the injured were passengers on the gasoline car.

GREENHOUSES WILL DELIGHT MRS. HOOVER

(This is the fourth of a series on Mrs. Hoover, new First Lady.)

By CORINNE RICH

Washington, Feb. 26—One of the chief joys of the incoming First Lady of the Land when she takes possession of the White House will undoubtedly be the magnificent grounds and the greenhouses that supply the mansion with all the blossoms of all the seasons.

For Mrs. Hoover is a lover of flowers. The garden at the rear of her quiet S st. home is a charming spot, where in years past have gathered many interesting and happy parties of friends. And now she will love particularly the little private twin gardens just outside the back windows of the White House.

COST $10,000 YEARLY.

But first she must make friends with Mr. Henlock. Mr. Henlock is the genial gentleman who has managed the 12 White House greenhouses since the first Cleveland administration. He has been closely associated with all the First Ladies since then and declares that you can size up a woman's character by the way she loves flowers.

The greenhouses are a very necessary part of the White House. Each of the dozen is more than 100 feet long and they are located far from the White House, near the Washington Monument. It costs the government something like $10,000 a year to keep these flower incubators going, $4000 of that amount being expended in heating them.

There with a dozen or so assistants, Mr. Henlock produces vast arrays of roses, carnations, ferns and many other kinds of blossoms of sensational inspiration. There are poinsettias for Christmas, Easter lilies for Easter, tulips and buttercups for spring, chrysanthemums for autumn.

NEED MANY FLOWERS

Anyone visiting the White House, particularly at times of large entertainments, is necessarily struck with the gorgeous arrangement of flowers in the reception rooms. An expert at decorations makes much of giant stands of long-stemmed flowers stationed in corners and of banks of them covering tables and mantels. So deftly are they placed that they seem to have grown right there.

The importance of flowers in the lives of Presidents' wives cannot be overestimated. They must have them in profusion—not only for their use in private living quarters and reception apartments, but to send to friends whom they wish to honor.

Feels Lynn Recount Not 'On the Level'

The legislative committee on election was told today by Charles H. McGlue, former chairman of the Democratic state committee, that no Democrat in Lynn felt the recount which resulted in President-elect Hoover carrying the city by 168 votes, "was on the level."

McGlue spoke in favor of a bill prohibiting any member of state, city or town committees from being appointed a registrar or assistant registrar of voters.

Ed Gallagher Dying Broke; Made Fortune With Partner Shean

New York, Feb. 26 (INS)—Ed Gallagher is dying.

Eddie Gallagher, of the comedy team, Gallagher and Shean, today was in a Long Island sanitorium, crippled, almost "broke" and slipping lower and lower.

"He is in no condition to answer questions," the attending doctor said.

Remember the famous honky-tonky song, "Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Shean"? Four years ago it was as popular as your next meal. There would be a pitter-patter verse finishing off with:

"Absolutely, Mr. Gallagher."
"Pos-i-tive-ly Mr. Shean."

Gallagher and his partner, Al Shean, made more than $100,000 from their tinkle song. Producers fought for the comedy team. They bid for their services as if they were presidential timber.

The passing popularity of the team with their funny little song found Gallagher estranged from his partner, Shean, divorced by his wife and former stage partner, Helen Gallagher. His friends and money were also gone like last night's lights along Broadway.

Helen goes to see him as often as she can out at the sanitorium now.

"Oh, Mr. Gallagher; oh, Mr. Gallagher;
"If a fellow only knew when things were slick—
"There's a kick in every boost
"And a boost in every kick—
"Absolutely, Mr. Gallagher,
"Pos-i-tive-ly Mr. Shean."

SAVE ATTORNEY IN BIG FIRE IN HAVERHILL

Haverhill, Feb. 26—Adelbert Sprague, Boston and Haverhill attorney, was carried down a ladder by firemen today when a $30,000 blaze partly destroyed a four-story business and tenement block in Merrimack st.

Sprague, who is of middle age, was trapped by smoke and flames in his office on the second floor. He was able to make his way to a window and cry for help.

The burned block is owned by Mrs. Adelia Tyler, who conducts a second-hand store and pawn shop on the first floor. Principal damage was done to her stock and to the stock and furnishings of a shoe shine and hat-cleaning shop operated on the first floor by John Nickas.

The second floor of the building was occupied by Attorney Sprague's office and the shop of George E. Seavey, dealer in musical instruments. The third and fourth floors are apartments, occupied respectively by Miss Clara Horsfall, business agent of the stitchers' local of the Haverhill Shoe Workers' Protective Union, and by Mrs. John Comeau. All three tenants were out at the time of the fire.

According to Mrs. Tyler, owner of the building, the blaze started in the basement, apparently from a heater.

CHICAGO POLICE CURB POLLS DISORDER

Chicago, Feb. 26 (AP)—Heavy police details and 1700 watchers at the polls seemed to function effectively today in Chicago's aldermanic election, for only minor disagreements and irregularities were reported.

Four precinct captains, involved in disputes outside polling places, were arrested and taken to the election commissioners' office for questioning. They were dismissed when they explained they were arguing about instructing voters outside polls.

Arrests were made even before the voting started. Deputy Commissioner John Stege sent special details sweeping through the "bloody Twentieth" Ward and they picked up half a dozen men, among them George Barker and Michael Reilly, acquitted last week of murder; Sam Kaplan, Isadore Fox and Abe (Humpy) Klass, the latter a brother of Martin Klass, one of the aldermanic candidates in the ward.

During the early voting hours two rivals workers, Morris Gerstein and Morris Horwitz, became involved in a fight and were arrested following a riot call.

Bill for Jury Duty by Women Rejected

With Senator Angier L. Goodwin of Melrose dissenting, the committee on judiciary today voted "leave to withdraw" on the bill making women liable to jury service.

GETS RICH FROM HER 'MIRACLE'

Freudian doctrines, occultism and the mysteries of Egyptian secret "cures" were paraded before Judge John A. Peters today in Federal Court by Madame Sadie L. Perry, Lynn "miracle woman," in her defense against the charge of mail fraud brought by the government against her countrywide clairvoyant and healing business.

Madame Perry revived before a jury and crowded courtroom the tradition of supernatural powers attributable to a seventh child, discussed at length the powers of psychology in the treatment of disease and described the efficacy of remedies used by the Pharoahs in the Egyptian past.

A FORTUNE IN IT

For thirty years, Madame Perry told the jury, she has been engaged in the diagnosis and treatment of disease by mail and admitted her business had accumulated in excess of $100,000.

She asserted she had cured every disease that had been referred to her and declared there were only very few instances in which her failure to cure had to be met with a refund of the patient's fee.

She refused to reveal the formula of her advertised Egyptian cure for obesity, nor would she inform Spalding from whom and how the mystic remedy had been obtained.

MAKES HAIR GROW

Relph H. Young of Beverly, a railroad ticket agent, exhibited to the jury a luxuriant growth of hair, which, he testified, had been promoted by remedies of the defendant.

"I was completely bald at the age of 21," Young informed the court, "and after a few applications of the Madame's lotion noticed a regrowth of my hair. I still use her preparation and bought a bottle only a few days ago."

Mrs. Lizzie M. Boynton of Malden, another defense witness, described the aid given by Madame Perry in finding safety deposit vault keys, missing for two months.

"The night after I interviewed Madame Perry," Mrs. Boynton testified, "I was in the bathtub when I heard a voice telling me to look for the lost keys under the pillows on the bed in an unused room. I sprang out of the tub, raced for the room and there were the missing articles."

PREVENTED RUIN BY RUBBER

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
(Copyright, 1929, by International News Service.)

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 26—An American tire magnate, seeking to break the British rubber monopoly and produce an independent rubber supply, has transformed Liberia, a backward country in West Africa, into a modern, progressive nation with a real future.

The story of this remarkable achievement, one of the biggest industrial developments ever undertaken, was told to the writer today by Harvey S. Firestone, the man who did it.

He is president of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, which has factories at Akron, Ohio, Los Angeles, Hudson, Mass., Hamilton, Ont., and Brentford, England.

He has preparation mills at Fall River and New Bedford, Mass., and at Singapore and great plantations in Liberia.

"There wasn't a bath tub nor an electric light in Liberia a few years ago," said Firestone. "There was only one automobile in the country, owned by the president, and it wouldn't run. The little independent negro republic was very backward and becoming more so.

"Today there are between 18,000 and 20,000 men on our payrolls in

SEEKS TO FREE MOTHER OF 4, NOW IN JAIL

Pointing out the inconsistency of keeping a mother in jail for four months to satisfy a fine of $100, while her four children are being cared for at a total expense of $216 to the city of Quincy, Chairman Channing Fernald of the Quincy public welfare board today asked release of the mother.

His appeal was made direct to Police Lieutenant James F. Whalen of Quincy, the arresting officer, but Lieut. Whalen refused to move toward release of Mrs. Mary Toomey of Des Moines rd.

She was sent to Dedham jail last Saturday in default of $100 fine imposed last Fall for an alleged liquor violation.

Her four children were placed in care of the welfare board and Chairman Fernald declares that while the mother faces four months in jail in working out her fine at the rate of 50 cents a day, it is costing the city of Quincy about $6 a week per child to support the four offspring.

Lieut. Whalen, in refusing to honor the request of Chairman Fernald, declared that Mrs. Toomey has sold liquor repeatedly, despite many warnings from him.

According to Chairman Fernald, if the police lieutenant does not ask release of the mother, he (Fernald) will personally request Judge Albert Avery to free Mrs. Toomey.

Lita Glad D'Arcy Free; Won't Wed Him

Dayton, O., Feb. 26 (AP)—Mrs. Lita Grey Chaplin, screen star and former wife of Charlie Chaplin, when advised today that Ray D'Arcy, screen actor, had been divorced by Mrs. Laura Guisti at Los Angeles, said:

"While I am glad Ray has obtained his divorce, that does not mean we are to be married, or are even engaged. As we both live in Hollywood it was natural rumors would be circulated about us. All such reports are without foundation."

$1000 Squabble Held Up Finishing Hub School 3 Months

The Finance Commission today issued a report concerning an investigation it made into the construction of the Horace Mann School, Kearsarge ave., Roxbury, revealing that work had been held up three months because of a squabble over $1000 worth of material.

The report was dated January 4. With it was a reply from Mayor Nichols, dated January 7, stating he had learned the difficulty was straightened out and work resumed.

Inquiries made to the School House Commission today revealed that the school is completed and ready to be turned over to the School House Commission for occupancy.

WHEN'LL LINDY WED? WHY, ER, 'MANANA'

Mexico City, Feb. 26—In a setting unsurpassed in fact or fiction for love-making, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is today proving himself an ardent wooer of his beautiful bride-to-be, Miss Anne Spencer Morrow.

This is the outstanding feature of the day, when all eyes are turned on the two sweethearts, happy in the seclusion of the little town of Cuernavaca, 50 miles from here and the place where the Morrows have their country estate.

"Manana" is the best word with which to announce their wedding plans, for "Manana," meaning tomorrow, is indefinite.

Later Col. Lindbergh will announce the plans.

On several auto trips, with Lindy at the wheel, they have been exploring the countryside at Cuernavaca. There is nothing to interrupt their seclusion. There is no newspaper in the village, and none but natives, who smile after them, to pay attention to their appearances in the streets.

Cuernavaca was one of 50 Mexican cities given by Charles V. of Spain to Hernando Cortez, the Mexican conqueror, and after 1530 Cortez made it his residence. The Empress Carlotta and Maximilian visited it often during their short and tragic reign.

ASTHMA DISAPPEARS

Recovery Due to Discovery of Basic Cause of Disease.

Indianapolis—Margaret Collins, 6047 Nickerson Ave., Chicago, has written a letter of intense interest to all who suffer from Asthma. In it she tells how the discovery of the basic cause of Asthma and Hay Fever by the celebrated Dr. Fugate resulted in the complete disappearance of her Asthma. Mrs. Collins' letter follows:

"Dr. Fugate's Asthma and Hay Fever Remedy was recommended to me by George A. Hutchins of Cleveland, Ohio, who came to Chicago to attend the Elks Convention. As soon as Mr. Hutchins saw how I was suffering, he told me how he had gotten rid of his Asthma by using Dr. Fugate's Remedy, and I thought it must be wonderful, as Mr. Hutchins is surely a fine, healthy looking man. I have not had a spell of Asthma since the first dose of the remedy. I am very grateful for the medicine and I want to tell everyone it is surely a Godsend to anyone having Asthma."

Copies of similar letters from others who formerly suffered from Asthma, together with an important booklet on Dr. Fugate's discovery of the cause of these diseases, will be sent free by The Fugate Company Department 4060, 126 S. Meridian St., Indianapolis, Ind. No matter how serious your case, write for this free booklet.

U. S. HAS 14,000 MILLIONAIRES TO BE TAXED

Washington, Feb. 26 (INS)—March income tax collections, the first accurate barometer reading of 1928's remarkable business activity, probably will disclose that there are more than 14,000 Americans with wealth exceeding $1,000,000.

This estimate was made at the treasury today on the basis of tax returns for former years, coupled with general commercial and industrial statistics available.

Last year 11,607 individuals returned taxable net incomes exceeding $100,000 which represents actual wealth of $1,000,000 or more, according to Joseph McCoy, chief treasury actuary. McCoy explained that to this list must be added many others, much of whose wealth is not taxable. The number of millionaires in 1928 was 14,000 according to McCoy.

New York, Feb. 26 (INS)—Bigamy is the least of the charges made by Virginia Margaret Pryor, film actress, in her suit for divorce against William H. Children's Colds Best Treated Externally

THAT'S why modern mothers prefer Vicks—it cannot upset delicate stomachs. Rubbed on throat and chest, it acts two ways at once:

(1) Its healing vapors, released by the body heat, are inhaled direct to the air passages;

(2) It "draws out" the soreness like an old-fashioned poultice.

OVER 17 MILLION JARS USED YEARLY

'L' JAM DELAYS THOUSANDS

Thousands of persons were delayed nearly half an hour in reaching their places of employment today when the entrance of the Boylston st. subway at Kenmore station was blocked by a disabled two-car train. Traffic in both directions on Commonwealth ave. and Beacon st. was tied up.

An inbound two-car train broke down on Beacon st. at Audubon rd. After several attempts to put it in commission another two-car train pushed it to a spur track just outside the mouth of the subway at Kenmore station and tied up both tracks.

Because of the tieup hundreds of passengers left cars and walked or took cabs to their destinations.

GOOSENS GIVES PROGRAM OF OWN WORK

By MOSES SMITH

Eugene Goosens, English composer and conductor, offered an interesting evening of his own compositions at Jordan Hall with the assistance of a competent and comprehensive list of assisting artists that enabled the large audience to hear a representative list of compositions.

The dangers that lie in an all-one-man program were successfully averted, though at times there was a noticeable drop in interest. But though Goosens' music may sound superficially too much of one piece, there are actually present subtle differences of style, of emotional content.

By the evidence of this program there is very likely not a more sincere composer in the world day. He never aims at the spectacular, and rarely at the clever. For the most part he is content to say his say simply, to permit the listener to hear without being slugged over the head.

The program listed a quintet for strings and piano, two groups of songs, a concerto for oboe and piano, a fantasy quartet, a sextet for strings, and a group of piano solos. The composer played the piano part in all except the songs, when Nicolas Slonimsky played the accompaniments. Miss Gertrude Ehrhart was the singer, and Leon Goosens, a brother of the composer, was an oboist of astonishing virtuosity, of remarkable artistry. For other assistants there were the Burgin String Quartet and Jacobus Langendoen, 'cellist. Moreover, Mr. Goosens, who is a musical jack-of-all-trades, played one of the violin parts in the sextet.

To set down a brief impression of the concert, the writer, found the sextet of especial importance, containing passages of rare beauty in this age of steel. There were other high spots, too numerous to mention. The songs were least revealing, perhaps because Miss Ehrhart delivered them, so to say, note for note, without expressive conviction.

Garner of Texas to Be Minority Leader

Washington, Feb. 27 (INS)—Initial steps in the organization of the House of Representatives for the 71st Congress will be taken this week when Speaker Nicholas Longworth and Representative John H. Garner (D.) of Texas are slected by Republican and Democratic caucuses for the post of speaker.

The Republican caucus is expected to rename Representative John Q. Tilson (R.) of Sonnecticut as majority floor leader and Representative Snell (R.) of New York as chairman of the rules committee. Representative Will R. Wood (R.) of Indiana is expected to take over the appropriations committee.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

CHAPLIN SHOWS SOME SLIGHT IMPROVEMENT

Hollywood, Calif., Feb. 26—Charlie Chaplain, famous screen comedian, was still in a serious condition at his home here today following a sudden attack of ptomaine poisoning.

The attack was suffered as Chaplin prepared to leave for his studio. He complained of a dizzy spell and then fell to the floor. His personal physician, Dr. Reynolds, ordered the comedian to bed for five days.

Dr. Reynolds said the patient's condition showed slight improvement today.

FIRESTONE'S OWN STORY OF LIBERIA

Liberia. Roads have been built through jungle country. A power plant has been erected and stores put up.

"Many automobiles are in operation there. We have a radio plant at Du River plantation which communicates directly with our main factory at Akron, Ohio, 5000 miles away.

"The people of Liberia are now happy and looking to the future. We actually saved that country. We even negotiated a $5,000,000 loan for this country."

Firestone, seated in his private study in his tropical estate here, explained how in 1922 Great Britain restricted the rubber growing area in the East Indies and caused the price of rubber to jump to $1.23 a pound in America.

6,000,000 TREES

So Firestone determined to fight this monopoly by finding a place where an independent supply of rubber could be produced. Today rubber is selling in this country for around 25 cents a pound.

"I had four men go all over the world to find the right place," said the American rubber magnate. "They tapped trees and investigated conditions all over the Far East.

"Finally, upon the advice of my son, Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., we decided that Liberia was the place, and in December, 1925, we obtained a million-acre concession from Liberia for the planting of rubber trees. Harvey made the deal.

"We have cleared 50,000 acres and have planted 30,000 acres. All told about 6,000,000 trees have been planted.

"Now the United States is assured of an independent rubber supply.

PROMOTES SCHOOLS

"American type bungalows have been built on the edge of the jungle. We have 125 white American college graduates in charge of the 20,000 black employes. We are teaching the native laborers to be carpenters, chauffeurs, and tradesmen of all types.

"We are co-operating with the missionaries in the establishment of a public school system."

Reminded that his close personal friend, Thomas A. Edison, had expressed the opinion that rubber can be grown in the United States, especially along the Gulf States, Firestone said he agreed that this was feasible. However, he pointed out that rubber never has been grown further away than 10 degrees from the equator.

He said he had figured it out that the American people had paid $625,000,000 more than should have been paid during the six years while the British restriction act was in effect.

Hindenburg Retains Steel Helmet Post

Berlin, Feb. 26 (AP)—Leaders of the Steel Helmets, responding to what amounted to an ultimatum from President von Hindenburg, today assured the President that the policy and aims of their organization were not directed against the republic, but against the present parliamentary system, which they contended needs reform.

Von Hindenburg has decided to remain honorary chaiman of the organization. Some Steel Helmeters with monarchical leanings were reported as desiring to eject the President before he could resign.

Westford Seeks New Sunday Sports Vote

Westford, Feb. 26 (AP)—Residents of this town who favor Sunday sports have begun a movement to have the action of the recent town meeting, rejecting the sports measure rescinded. The town meeting defeated the bill 55 to 32.

Advocates of the measure believe they can muster sufficient strength to have the bill adopted if the matter is put to a vote again. At the last state election, the proposal was favored by a large majority here.

Boy, 12, Kills Dad to Save Own Life

Chicago, Feb. 26 (AP)—Philip N. Coletti spanked his 12-year-old ▬ Charles last night, beat him, choked him and then started after his knife. The boy shot him dead.

Charles was held by juvenile authorities today, but the stories of his mother and an older brother who witnessed the shooting led police to believe it was in self-defence.

The witness said the father, who had been drinking, punished Charles for coming home late.

Juvenile Courts for Whole State Urged

Children of the North End, the South and West Ends have the advantage of the juvenile court when they get into trouble with the police—but what about those in other parts of Boston and Massachusetts?

Mrs. LaRue Brown

To them crime looks like an adventure clothed in romance when they are entertained in police stations until some probation officer gets around to them, and held in jails with hardened criminals with a talent for entertaining kids.

This was one startling aspect of a picture of child neglect that made the Boston League of Women Voters shudder as they listened to Hans Weiss, juvenile probation officer, explain the urgent need of a central detention home for juvenile offenders and many more juvenile courts. Mrs. LaRue Brown, chairman of the child welfare committee, introduced the speaker to a large audience.

"We have got to get over the attitude that a juvenile court record stamps a child with a criminal record," Weiss declared. "The act for which a boy is arrested is only a symptom of a condition calling for the phychological examination of such an aid to the juvenile judge as the Judge Baker Foundation," he continued.

"If the community has the right spirit it recognizes that the juvenille court exercises parental care, is not concerned primarily with punishment but with adjustment to society. The general public is lamentably ignorant of the ideals of such a court."

To many it is news that P[illegible]n has the only juvenile court in the State and that is serves only three sections of Metropolitan Boston.

Juvenile delinquency he attributed to broken homes, poverty, bad neighborhoods, and inharmony between parents.

"Hearings of juvenile offenses held in suburban courts are brief, and deal only with the act for which the child is arrested," Weiss went on. "But the same act may mean many different things in different boys. There is no case work, and the offender is usually dealt with by being threatened with being 'sent away.' The Boston juvenile court has no delay, but gives specialized treatment through co-operation with the Judge Baker Foundation."

Miss Alma Holzschuh, borrowed from Los Angeles juvenile court for work on the Harvard crime commission, drew a contrasting picture of the parental care given "problem girls" in Los Angeles where a detention home, Business Girls Club and other agencies work together to help the girl without placing a stigma upon her.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Twenty-eight women launched the new drive for 5000 increased membership for the Ladies Helping Hand Auxiliary to the Home for Jewish Children by buying life memberships at $100 each as soon as the plan was announced yesterday. Scores bought annual memberships.

Mrs. Samuel Altman, president, explained how the society spends $25,000 annually helping the children in the home when 1000 women gathered at Aperion Hall to honor Mrs. Lisbeth Goodstein, new mother-director.

"Instead of giving dances, card parties and such to raise this sum we are going to have an intensive drive during May for 5000 new members, canvassing from house to house," Mrs. Altman explained. "That annual fee is all that will be asked during the year and the first 100 names on the life membership list will be placed on the honor roll tablet to be placed in the home."

This organization spends nearly $1400 monthly for maintaining educational and vocational classes, running a summer camp, now owned and operated at Alfred, Me., and assisting graduates from the home who start out to make their way in the world at the age of 16. Mrs. Altman's appeal touched every mother in the vast audience. She particularly asked for "big sisters" for lonely kiddies in the institution who crave home contacts.

Love and Heiress Make Fiction Come True

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 26 (AP)—The much-used plot of fiction writers in which the pretty heiress from the effete East finally elopes with a dashing cowboy, defying conventions and parental wrath, developed into a reality here today with Miss Katharine Thorne of Chicago and George Gillespie of Castle Hot Springs, Ariz., in the leading roles.

Miss Thore, daughter of Gordon Thorne, former president of Montgomery Ward & Co., and Gillespie, who went in for cowboy life two years ago after being graduated from the University of Tennessee, were married here after a breath-taking ride from Castle Hot Springs, where the Thornes are wintering.

Officers had been put on the trail of the two, who had known each other only three weeks. The attempt to stop the elopement had been made by Mr. and Mrs. Thorne, who said Katherine was only 17. They requested that Gillespie be arrested for kidnaping.

The elopers interrupted their honeymoon long enough for the bride to inform newspapermen she is of age.

"We love each other, so we got married," she said. "Father and mother do not understand yet. When they do, I am sure that everything will be all right."

The cause of the parental wrath was said to have been that Miss Thorne was engaged to marry Clymer S. Bowen of Chicago. The engagement was announced in Chicago last month, shortly before the family left for Arizona.

40 DRIVEN OUT BY FLAMES

Worcester, Feb. 26—Forty persons were driven outdoors in their night clothing in a cold snow storm early today when a fire of undetermined origin raced up the rear end of a four-story brick apartment house at 112 Harding st.

Apparently starting on the rear piazza on the first floor, possibly from hot ashes, the flames worked up to the top story, driving the occupants out of all the apartments. The damage was estimated

"I am strong for Luckies."

John Gilbert

John Gilbert
Celebrated Screen Star

"Motion picture actors are under a great strain—they need the comforting qualities of a good cigarette. That is why most of us smoke Lucky Strike. The marvelous toasted flavor of Luckies brings complete enjoyment and relaxation but does not hurt the throat or wind. I am strong for Luckies—they are the 'stars' of the cigarette picture. I would rather have a Lucky after a meal than rich pastries or desserts."

JOHN GILBERT

John Gilbert, Popular Motion Picture Actor

The modern common sense way—reach for a Lucky instead of a fattening sweet. Everyone is doing it—men keep healthy and fit, women retain a trim figure. Lucky Strike, the finest tobaccos, skilfully blended, then toasted to develop a flavor which is a delightful alternative for that craving for fattening sweets.

Toasting frees Lucky Strike from impurities. 20,679 physicians recognize this when they say Luckies are less irritating than other cigarettes. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This surely confirms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

Jewish Leader

GUEST IN CITY

Col. Frederick H. Kisch, chairman of Palestine executive committee, who is in Boston today. He says Palestine now has 150,000 Hebrews, and that business conditions there are prospering.

Col. Frederick H. Kisch, world famous Jewish leader and chairman of the Palestine executive committee of the World Zionist Organization, which administers Hebrew affairs in the Jewish homeland arrived in Boston today.

The noted Britisher comes here to acquaint those of his faith and those of other faiths who are interested in Palestine with the work being done there.

Col. Kisch was guest of honor at a luncheon at the Copley Plaza attended by prominent Jews from all sections of Massachusets. At 12:30 he was presented to Governor Allen by Asst. U. S. Atty. Elihu D. Stone, president of the New England Zionist region.

Tonight at 8 o'clock he will hold a public reception at the Hotel Statler.

BUSINESS IS BOOMING.

During the four centuries prior to the World War Palestine had been under Turkish rule, Col. Kisch said today, and during that time no progress was made. Since the British mandate was established there Palestine has enjoyed a decent regime and there has been justice and security for both the Jewish and Arab residents.

Col. Kisch has made his home in Palestine for the past six years. Conditions have improved greatly there during the years since the war, he said. There are 150,000 Hebrews in Palestine at present. Sanitary systems, electricity and irrigation have been introduced, while the industrial life has grown to such proportions that furniture, textiles, cement, olive oil, high grade soaps and shoes are manufactured.

Orange growing is another prospering business and last year more than 2,000,000 cases of the fruit were exported. A harbor is now being built at Heifa at a cost of $6,000,000. It is expected that this will make that city one of the principal ports in the East.

POPULATION JUMPS.

Railroads will be built along the old caravan routes leading from Heifa and work will soon start on a rail line between that city and Bagdad.

Because there are not sufficient funds to finance immigrants to the country it was necessary for a period of two years to shut down on Hebrews who sought to settle in the homeland. This condition has changed now, however, and at present the Jewish population of 150,000 shows an increase of 85,000 over that of World War days.

PROFIT-TAKING IN WALL ST. IS FELT

By W. S. COUSINS

New York, Feb. 26—With the exception of the coppers which stiffened under the effects of a strong market for the red metal, industrial stocks were driven to slightly lower price levels today under a weight of profit-taking and professional selling.

The banks called home a large volume of money in their month-end adjustments, the call loan rate soon went to 9 per cent.

With copper metal now at 18¼ cents a pound, the producers were unwilling to contract for June delivery of the metal at that price. Present requirements of the home market at current prices are close to 20,000,000 pounds with 5,000,000 pounds for the European markets. The usual parade of the copper stocks brought a new gain of 3 points for Anaconda, 4 for Kennecott and for Greene Cananea, Calumet & Arizona and Chile rose 3.

A 9 per cent money rate, with federal reserve bank officials keenly observing the money market, is hardly a time for "bullish operations" in stocks. The oils, however, worked higher. Here and there an important stock is picked out for a "demonstration," such as that given by U. S. Steel this week; but just at this time most of the big traders are groping in the dark as far as their knowledge of market movements are concerned.

Not even the confidence in the Steel Corporation board's intention to revamp the capitalization of the company, by purchase and retirement of a good share of its outstanding bonds, could maintain enthusiasm for the stock today. Instead of continuing yesterday's brilliant advance, Steel common fell back a point or two, while Bethlehem lost 2½ points.

Vacuum Oil After Texas Pacific Co.

Negotiations are reported under way for Vacuum Oil Co. to acquire Texas Pacific Coal & Oil Co. on basis of $35 a share for latter. Texas Pacific Coal & Oil Co. has production in West Texas and in Montana and a complete refinery at Fort Worth. Local plant makes lubricating oil from uncontaminated Ranger crude which refining technologists claim is equal to any and in some respects superior to Pennsylvania grades. In addition it will be in position to supply some of Vacuum's gasoline requirements made necessary by reason of its recent new departure in entering gasoline retail sales business.

Both stocks now are showing improved tendency. National Park Bank stock is strong at 930 to 950, up 15 to 20 points, on rumors that this bank may be included with Equitable Trust Co. in a combine with National City Bank.

USE OF TIN FOIL GROWING FAST

The importance to the tin industry of the little bits of tin foil one throws away so carelessly is strikingly emphasized in the annual report of the United States Bureau of Mines.

More and more "silver paper" (tin) is being used every year, for new uses for it are being constantly discovered. Radio condensers, for instance, require it in a very accurate gauge of sheet which is so thin that 4,50 sheets in book form are only an inch thick. The thinnest sheets are no more than .00022 of an inch in thickness, and 18,500 square inches are made from a pound of tin.

Tin foil is even used in big guns. It is introduced into the gun before firing, a very small quantity being added to the charge to diminish the deposit of copper on the rifled bore. The thickness of the tin-foil permits the division of the metal into sufficiently fine particles to facilitate the interaction between the copper and the steel.

In 1925 the United States alone consumed 2993 long tons of primary tin in the manufacture of "silver paper," and in 1927 this figure had grown to 4193 tons. The extra demand was largely due to the growth in the consumption of cigarettes from 80,000 millions to 97,[illegible] millions, to the increase in the sale of sweets and to the packing of cheese in segments.

In nearly every house, the first thing offered today is a cocktail. Formerly in my home I never had anything stronger than a glass of wine at New Year's time. My father liked beer. He was no drunkard. My grandmother lived to be 86, and drank two bottles of beer a day and also a glass of light wine at night before retiring. Certainly she was no drunkard.

Let us have a new law [illegible] by all. [illegible] whether we have [illegible] or not. And if [illegible]

DRY LAW FAILS

I favor some form of legalized possession of beers and light wines, and I trust the Hearst temperance contest will reveal some acceptable method of bringing this about.

WILL IRWIN, veteran newspaperman, author and lecturer, New York: Prohibition, I believe, is not the right way to go about correcting the country's liquor evils. Therefore, I welcome Mr. Hearst's temperance contest for the discussion it is raising and the energy it is stirring toward the formation of a plan that will [illegible]

In the first place, I don't believe in the idea of prohibition. I consider it a complete failure. Not that we cannot enforce morality. We do. We enforce laws against theft, murder and destruction of property.

But we enforce them because they have the overwhelming support of the people. A moral law cannot be enforced unless there is that overwhelming opinion in favor of the moral behind it.

In America there is a strong minority, and in some places even a majority of persons who do not believe it is wrong to drink alcoholic liquors. If Americans were as generally agreed that it is wrong to take a drink as they are that it is wrong to steal a dime, then we could enforce prohibition. But they are not, and attempts to enforce the law only result in farce or tragedy.

NEW HAMPSHIRE HITS B. & M. 'DESERTION'

Six-Day Novel by a Famous Author

JEAN CARSTEYN, beautiful young adventurer and journalist, contracts to cross the African deserts from Algiers to the Sudan, the first to attempt this hazardous 5,000 mile journey. Before leaving London she encounters a sun-darkened, tall stranger, whose curious yellow eyes haunt and frighten her. For days thereafter, in theater, restaurant or street Jean finds those yellow eyes staring at her. She arrives in Algiers thankful to have escaped the persistent stranger. Jean continues on to Oran and there accepts lodging at a mysterious house—to find herself a prisoner.

Jim Verner, a young Englishman, disguised as a wealthy Pasha, enters the house and aids Jean to escape. They become fast friends. Jean, anxious to be off on her long journey, leaves for Figuig, the starting point. Arriving there she learns that her caravan has been taken by Tranby Hillson, noted explorer and man of mystery. Not to be thwarted in her purpose, Jean stains her skin, and, disguised as a native dancing girl, joins a merchant caravan bound for Thibesti.

Her disappearance from Oran has been reported, however, and a French officer on an oasis spots her when he sees her red hair.

Now go on with the story.

ABANDONED FOR BIG CITIES

Concord, N. H., Feb. 26.—A charge that the Boston & Maine Railroad in this state has become a main line business with little concern for the interests of citizens except those resident in the centers of population, was contained in a report [illegible] Public Service Commission.

The commission concluded a long investigation into the "reasonableness and adequacy" of the service of the railroad in New Hampshire [illegible] justified the fear of [illegible] efforts [illegible].

FEWER TRAINS

The commission found that through passenger trains on the main lines were "obviously not designed for accommodation of citizens of the state except such as are served at the infrequent stops, and that "the schedules are intended to serve the centers of population and the terminal."

Passenger train miles have decreased 11 percent since 192[illegible], the number of trains 20 percent and the number of station stops 30 percent, the commission reported. It also noted that there had been "a greater decrease in passenger train service than in passenger train revenue."

FEAR FOR PORTSMOUTH.

Diversion of freight from the branch lines to the longer main routes was declared by the commission inimical to the territory served by the branch lines. It reported that the territory specially affected by such diversion would probably be that served by the Worcester, Nashua & Portland, Conway & Lakeport branches.

"Abandonment of the Portsmouth bridge," it declared, "would still further jeopardize that city."

The commission suggested that the Boston & Maine railroad establish a department in this State with a man at its head familiar with the different demands here for transportation. Such a department, it said, should result in holding present business and building up more in each branch.

BROOKLINE WIFE WINS ALIMONY

Mrs. Miriam S. Gutterman of Brookline was today found to be living apart justifiably from Louis Gutterman, Boston leather merchant, in a decision by Judge Joseph R. McCoole in Dedham Probate Court.

She was granted custody of their two children and Gutterman was ordered to pay her $200 at once and $50 a week for support of herself and children.

In her separate support action Mrs. Gutterman charged her husband with cruel and abusive treatment, testifying before Judge McCoole that her husband refused to speak to her for long periods of time. She was formerly his private secretary.

Sculptor Praises St. Anthony for Cure

Naples, Feb. 26 (AP)—Vincenzo Gemito, famous sculptor, who has been ill with pneumonia, attributed great improvement in his condition today to intervention of St. Anthony of Padua.

The aged sculptor told a member of the Duchess of Acosta's household who called to present Her Highness' wishes for his recovery that the saint had appeared to him in a dream and reproached him for never having made a statue of him. Gemito, said he promised St. Anthony, that if cured he would "immortalize him in marble."

LOUISE WEBB, Ashmont st., Dorchester, stenographer—No. Lindbergh should not continue to fly after he is married. Marriage is the greatest of all institutions and he should not enter it knowing that his life may be snuffed out any time he flies a plane. He should think more of his wife and not take any chances of making her life unhappy.

BEATRICE O'BRIEN, 1292 Commonwealth ave., Allston, stenographer—Yes why not? Miss Morrow will marry him knowing what his work is and she should not take him from it. There are thousands of other wives whose husbands have dangerous positions and she should take her chances the same as they. Lindbergh is better fitted for flying than anything else and he should stick to it.

ANNA BLUESTEIN, Village st., Medway, student.—Lindbergh should stop flying after he is married. He will have a wife to think of and he should not risk his life flying when he could help aviation just as much in a safe position on ground. When a man marries he guarantees to protect his wife as much as possible and Lindbergh can not assume the duties of marriage while he is risking his life in the air.

6 School Children Nabbed as Pickets

New York, Feb. 26—Junior high school pupils were among those arrested in the police roundup of pickets in the garment district which resulted in the arraignment of 126 persons before Magistrate Weil in Jefferson Market Court.

Five were held in $500 bail each, one was fined $3, 15 were held in $25 bail each, and the others were freed. The half a dozen junior high school pupils found among the pickets were turned over to attendance officers of the Board of Education, who will inquire whether they were engaged by their parents to take part in the strike.

$210,000 Estate Left by Dedham Woman

Mrs. Mary A. Quincy of Dedham left an estate valued at $210,26[illegible], it became known today with the filing of a statement in Dedham court by appraisers of her personal property.

Her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Q. Nourse, received the entire estate when the will was filed with the exception of $5000 willed to Fred R. Nourse, her daughter's husband, and $1000 to Dorothy Nourse, a grandchild.

Third Suit by R. I. Wife Against Mate

Providence, Feb. 26—The marital troubles of Mrs. Isabella Burns and Robert E. Burns, wealthy monument dealer and former lightweight boxer, were in the limelight again today when the wife filed a bill in equity charging violation of a pre-nuptial agreement by Burns in transferring property to Annie M. Bannon and Carolyn Rubes.

In 1922 Mrs. Burns sued for divorce charging non-support and won a decree, but Burns appealed to the Supreme Court which reversed the decision. Last July Mrs. Burns brought another action charging cruelty and won a decree. An appeal will be heard in Supreme Court next month.

Factory of Fuller's Ex-Pastor Robbed

Safe-robbers blew open the strong box in the office of the Poem Company, makers of relishes, on Pearl st., Malden, early today, but got only $12. The dial of the safe was knocked off and the door blown open with nitroglycerine. Entrance to the plant was gained by a rear door.

The theft was discovered by the proprietor, Rev. Charles H. Moss, retired pastor of ex-Governor Fuller's church, the First Baptist, in Malden, and chaplain of the Massachusetts Senate.

$1,600,000 SUIT IN BANKRUPTCY

New York, Feb. 26 (INS)—New developments in the bankruptcy scandal aired in Congress and now under investigation by U. S. Dist. Atty. Charles H. Tuttle and a Federal grand jury came today in the filing of a suit for the recovery of $1,677,411.19 by John Lowry, Inc., a building contractor, against 18 defendants.

No Longer a Luxury

A hundred years ago ice was a luxury. Today it is a most delightful necessity which all can afford. In more than 15,000,000 homes in this country ice-refrigerators are in use the year round. Wise people have discovered that the idea of stopping the ice supply in winter was false economy. Food must be protected in a warm kitchen in winter just as in summer.

Window ice-boxes—unsafe at all times—are particularly a menace right now with the prevalent danger of influenza. Food in window ice-boxes cannot be properly protected.

Miami Fight Mad
Striblings Confident
Go Booms Resort
Sharkey Ready
Battle a Success
Fine Fight Arena

By NICK FLATLEY

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb 26—Miami has gone fight-mad, all of a sudden. There has been considerable hub bub down here for weeks about the Sharkey Stribling row, but the real fever hit the village within the last dozen hours or so. The arrival of the gang from Boston seems to have turned the trick.

Hundreds of what might be called the "gang" are now in these parts. The boys you see at all the big events. [illegible]

Nick Flatley

[illegible] Most of the [illegible] are sleeping on park benches [illegible] [illegible] concentrating [illegible] Stribling Annie Oakleys or horning in some way [illegible]

The [illegible] and the [illegible] buzz now with fight chatter. Mr. Sharkey has been made a seven to five favorite, although the solid South is strong for Stribling. The invasion from the North brought a flock of Sharkey money, and the Stribling [illegible] more or less absent.

Little things like the story of the attempt on Jack Dempsey's life and the report that the Czar of the Canebrakes, as they call Stribling, had a dislocated rib, help to steam up the interest. The arena will hardly be sold out, but it will hold more money than the promoters ever dreamed about.

[illegible] the top of the world [illegible] pocket [illegible] [illegible] on May [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] has fought [illegible] the last two [illegible] keep him that way until he gets his big [illegible] for the [illegible]. That, of course, is the optimistic way the Sharkey camp looks at things. [illegible]

By the same token the Striblings are just as confident. The wife of the battler is going to the fight. She claims that she wouldn't go if there was an outside chance of her husband being licked. But she [illegible] at the Sharkey menace.

[illegible] confidence augurs a real war.

THIS FIGHT HAS BROUGHT SO MUCH MONEY AND PUBLICITY TO MIAMI THAT THE BOYS ARE ALMOST READY TO START ANOTHER LAND BOOM.

MISTER SHARKEY will not buy in. He wants to go home. He has his trunks packed and a reservation on the first train out.

MANAGER JOHN BUCKLEY is cheering long and loudly for his fighter.

"I've been with Sharkey ever since he started," chirps Jawn, "and I have never seen him in such shape. He's better now than he was for Wills, and he was good that night.

"The two fights he has had lately have been just the medicine for him. He softens up when he lays off. He wasn't himself against De Kuh. If he had been fighting Stribling in that condition, he would have been licked. For the Southerner is a good fighter.

"Jack improved against Christner. He found himself when that fight was half over. And he has never slid back. Rather he has improved steadily. He's hitting harder now than he ever did, and he has been using his head. He's getting ring smart.

He won't get mad and try to slug when he should box any more. And he won't box when he should step in and flatten some bird. He has been following instructions perfectly, and he will do it in the ring tomorrow night.

"If he doesn't knock Stribling out, I'll be the most surprised man in the world. I know he'll win, anyhow, but I'm cheering for the kayo. Jack's hands have hardened up, and he can cut loose.

"And he has the old punch. Johnny Grosso, sparring partner, admits that Sharkey almost knocked him out three or four times in training. That was with the big gloves. And Grosso is about as tough as they come."

Sharkey himself is equally optimistic, though he has learned not to make too many speeches about his ability. He has grown very popular with the same gang who used to knock him, and he wants to stay that way.

SHARKEY WOUND UP TODAY WITH A ROAD JAUNT AND SOME BAG PUNCHING. YOU CAN TELL THE FOLKS HE'S READY.

JACK says Strib is likely to have a dislocated rib this time Thursday. The tar has already ordered his victory [illegible]

THIS is one large fight, going over with a bang, where there isn't a whisper of ticket speculation. The demand for seats has been heavy, but all orders have been filled and the late comers are able to buy the ducats, although the choice spots have been sold long since.

The new arena here is a mighty nifty affair, and the cheapest seats are closer to the scene of action than were some of the so-called ringsides in the famous Battle of Chicago. Promoters are very likely to steal the idea and put them up here and there.

"That will steal the play away from the ball parks. And the expense is not more than most of the big shooters have to pay out in rentals over a couple of years."

50 Harvard Grade on Ticket Blacklist

As a result of an investigation made by C. F. Getchel, general manager of the Harvard Athletic Association, 50 Harvard grads have become permanently blacklisted for having sold their tickets to speculators and will be unable to receive tickets for Crimson contests through the H. A. A., according to the announcement made today.

The investigations were made after the last football season. It was found that the Yale game brought about the largest number of disqualifications, 23 men losing their privileges of ever applying for tickets again.

Nine men were blacklisted as the result of violations in their use of tickets to the Dartmouth fray, while the West Point game added 12 more to this list.

In the event the boxer scoring the knockdown is not in the most distant corner at the count of four the referee shall stop the count until he gets there. He shall then take up the count at five. The lapse in the counting shall be considered as a penalty.

MUST STAY IN CORNER

8—If after a boxer scoring a knockdown reaches the most distant corner and later leaves it before the count of 10 the referee shall stop the count and not resume it until the boxer is back in the most distant corner. This is also to be considered as a penalty.

9 The referee's ruling on fouls shall be final. He shall have the right to disqualify a boxer who fouls intentionally after being warned, even though his opponent is not injured. The referee may call upon the assistance of a doctor in the case of a foul, but he is not required to do so. In any event the referee's ruling shall be the final one.

The ruling on the question of the count prevents any controversy such as the one at Chicago at the time of the Dempsey-Tunney bout. The main [illegible] is that the boxer scoring the knockdown must retire to the most distant corner. The referee will start the count as soon as the boxer goes down. He will give the boxer scoring the knockdown four seconds to get to the most distant corner.

If he fails to do so, he will hold up the count until the boxer is in the most distant corner. He will then take up the count at five.

TAKE LIGHT EXERCISE.

The referee will also suspend the count if a boxer leaves the most distant corner until the full count has been [illegible] off.

Dempsey [illegible] that a doctor be consulted in the event of a foul but it was finally decided the referee's decision should be final. The referee is not required to consult with a doctor, but he may do so.

Sharkey and Stribling only did light exercises today and are waiting for the gong which will send them into action.

The weather is ideal and it is expected the show will come off on schedule.

The main bout will start as near 10 o'clock tomorrow night as possible.

Johnny Buckley announced that Sharkey is in perfect physical condition and that he will be prepared to put up the battle of his life when he steps into action tomorrow night.

Finnegan Saved By Bell, Comes Back

Philadelphia, Feb. 25 (AP)—Honey Boy Finnegan, Boston southpaw with a stinging [illegible], slashed his way to a 10-round victory tonight over Pete Nebo, [illegible] Indian. Honey Boy scaled [illegible] and the Seminole was a half pound [illegible].

Finnegan's ability to escape Nebo's swinging right and counter with a jarring left won him the decision. He also had to rally from the brink of a knockout in the third, when Nebo sent him down with a swinging right that landed on the point of the jaw. Honey Boy hit the floor in a sitting position, then fell backward and sprawled full length. The referee had counted six when the bell ended the round and possibly saved the Bostonian.

The winner, as announced recently, will receive a $10,000 purse to fight Benny Bass in an outdoor ring here next summer.

Harvard-Yale Ice Game Tickets on Sale

With the filing of all applications by Harvard men for the Harvard-Yale hockey game to be played at the Boston Garden on March [illegible] tickets are now [illegible] sale [illegible] the H. A. A. [illegible]

The tickets which have been allotted on application have been put in the mails, it was stated by Carroll E. Getchell, general manager of the H. A. A.

Indications are the game will be the first amateur contest at the Garden to be a sell-out. One class of applications, that for box seats, was oversubscribed, according to Getchell, and the Harvard [illegible] decided by lot which applications would be filled.

The remaining applications were filled in the reserved seat sections and wherever seats thus drawn were at a price less than those applied for checks have been mailed with the tickets.

Sharkey of "Vital" Type of Person

By LOUISE RICE
Distinguished Graphologist

Jack Sharkey

THIS is the "hand" of a man who belongs to the VITAL TYPE, which means that he is sensitive to pain in either himself or other people.

He is perfectly capable of suffering mental torment when [illegible] that he has inflicted punishment on the very man he is out to beat.

This is both an asset and a liability, in the fighting profession. Such sensibility is the sign of mental activity, quickness of thought and intuition.

It shows that the writer has that curious faculty of outguessing the other fellow through what we are pleased to call intuition, which is really a sixth sense, not easily fitted into the scheme of the physical senses.

THUS, while Sharkey winces as he delivers a blow, knowing [illegible] no person of the MATERIAL TYPE like Stribling can know about the other fellow just how that blow is going to hurt, his agile mind is capable of foretelling the return blow of the opponent with uncanny foresight of what that blow is going to be.

On the other hand, with intuition playing a large part, imagination [illegible] and sensitiveness [illegible] Sharkey will always be the victim of [illegible].

Just how he will behave under any given condition is something which no one, including himself can say.

Stribling and those who know him can tell fairly well how he will take anything and everything. He, and they, will not have to reckon with any of his personal affairs, because his personal affairs will never interfere with his work.

SHARKEY, on the other hand is a creature affected by happiness and unhappiness to a tremendous degree.

The feeling that people believe in him that his family love him that his friends are loyal—these things mean a great deal to him and because of his temperament they will always affect his work.

Let it be remembered that, while something affecting Sharkey's state of mind might be fatal to his success with Stribling, it is also true that this temperamental quality of his has its moments.

Should one of such moments occur in the ring, Sharkey will overwhelm Stribling.

It has always seemed to me that this matter of the difference in character and temperament in fighters has had too little consideration at the hands of fight fans.

If these things are taken into the count the contest become all the more fascinating, and in this one between two fighters of such opposite characters this will be especially true.

Strib of "Material" Type of Fighter

By LOUISE RICE

W. L. Stribling Jr.

THIS is the logical "hand" of a fighter. That does not say, however, that Stribling will win in the Sharkey-Stribling bout.

It does say that Stribling is the type of man to genuinely enjoy his profession and that he is likely to stay in it.

He will fight as well as he can, and his soul and mind will be heartily with him in what he does.

You can depend upon it, when you see him in action, that he is all there, his mind pinned right to the matter in hand, his liking for the job in full occupation of his temperamental reactions; his pride, ambition, desire, hope and aspiration all set on the immediate matter of knocking the other fellow out.

THIS sounds like a wonderful recommendation for this young Southerner, but there are a good many "ifs" and "perhapses" to add to such a definite picture.

The MATERIAL TYPE, of which Stribling is such an excellent example, has its limitations. It almost never has genius. It is a fine working machine and will do the utmost that any human machine can do.

It is free from vapors, temperament, hysteria and futile imagination. It is cheerful, never oppressed by mysterious forebodings and never much affected by purely personal matters.

These are in favor, generally speaking, in the fighting profession. These elements of character allow the fighter to do his best, even when conditions are unpropitious, allow him to take a pretty bad beating without getting his feelings hurt, permit him to be philosophical about being beaten honestly and in a fair fight, in which he has done his best.

HE would almost inevitably be the winner over the very good fighter of his own type, even the supremely good fighter of his own type, the material type, which is logical, steady, a good winner and a good loser, whose moves can be predicated and whose temperament is not considered because he hasn't any.

MANY EAGLES IN I. C. 4 A TRACK MEET

Boston College, in an effort to be among the point scorers, will send a large track team to the Annual Indoor Intercollegiates which will be held at the 102nd Engineers Armory in New York city next Saturday night.

Manager McDermott has entered 23 Maroon and Gold athletes in the meet although the list will be sliced down by Coach Jack Ryder before the squad leaves for Gotham on Friday night.

Three Maroon and Gold relay teams will seek intercollegiate titles. The one mile varsity has a great chance of winning against the other quartets, while the two mile varsity and freshman medley teams may also take places.

The mile varsity team has had a good season but although cleaning up other opponents, couldn't top their ancient rivals Holy Cross, in four meetings. The Purple won on every occasion. Three of the defeats however were brought about by spills on the part of B. C. runners.

The Purple mile team of Klumbach, Terrell, Barry and Chenis is considered the likely winner of the mile relay at the Intercollegiates. And the Eagle team has equalled the best time turned in by this Crusader four. Georgetown, Syracuse, Fordham and Dartmouth are the strongest teams in the event and B. C. will have to beat these outfits to win.

John Sullivan, Bob Sullivan, Bill Mulcahey, Joe McCall, John Woodworth, Charley Finn and Henry Keenan are battling for the positions on the team. Time trials tomorrow afternoon will settle the berths.

Batteries Report For Green Team

Hanover, N. H., Feb. 26—Coach Jeff Tesreau of Dartmouth called out his baseball battery candidates today. Twenty-seven men answered the first call for pitchers and catchers, several of whom are veterans from last year's team. By all appearance the main battery this year will be Gunnar Hellstrom and Earl McDonough, who was relief catcher last year.

Other pitchers who reported were Earl Liberty, Charley Dudley, Herb McCreery, Shep Wolff and Hausman.

There is a possibility that Dick Rogers of Newton, hockey star, may join the squad as a twirler after the hockey season is over. This will mark Rogers' first appearance for baseball since he came to college.

Bucky Harris May Play and Manage

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 26 (AP)—Stanley Bucky Harris already has given the dopesters something to write about: "Does he, or does he not intend to play this season?"

The question was forced into prominence by the serious manner in which the new manager of the Detroit Tigers worked out at third base in the first practise session of the season.

"No, I'm to manage the club," was his answer to the natural question. "But I could either play third or second base if occasion arose."

The hotel lobby legion however, will keep a weather eye on the position held last year by the vet. Marty McManus.

As a rule the first week in camp has found only batterymen working out, but this season most of the infielders and outfielders came in with the first contingents. Only a few have not reported.

BULLDOGS WAR WITH HUB SIX

Win Gives League Lead to Tigers Tomorrow, as Reds Will Be Idle

Once more the Tigers have the opportunity to gain the leadership of the Canadian-American Hockey League. Victory over the tough Newark Bulldogs in the Arena tomorrow night would put the team back on the crest in this tightest of all races.

ROUGH GAME

Indications are that tomorrow's game will rival the battle of Washington's Birthday with the Bulldogs. That game was the roughest and most bitterly fought of the Can-Am season and the players have not had time to cool off since.

President Charles C. Clapp of the league, in an effort to prevent a resumption of the ructions of last week, has engaged Bobby Hewitson, one of the best of the National League referees, to work with Bill Shaver.

Instructions are to fill the penalty box to keep the game clean and to enforce fines if necessary.

[illegible] a light practice today to put themselves on [illegible] Bulldogs. [illegible] made a fast comeback [illegible] campaign of last week and the players never showed more fire and dash.

The injury list has been pared down to practically nothing after a season of misfortune. Ponzi Contant is the only player below par and indications are that he will be right for the Newark game.

He got a bump on the chest in the Springfield game and an X-ray was made to be sure that nothing was [illegible]

BRAVES IN FIRST BALL GAME OF SEASON

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 26. A pair of Braves teams battled here today in the first game of the season. Hank Gowdy captained one of the nines, and Johnny Evers was in charge of the other aggregation.

Naturally the boys did not overdo the thing and risk strained muscles, charley horses, and so on. Evers has too much experience in baseball for anything like that.

SMITH CATCHES

Dick Smith caught the offerings of [illegible] and Wertz for the [illegible] Brandt, Cantwell and Collins were in left, center and right fields, and Spohrer on third, B. Smith at short, Gowdy on second and Jimmy Cooney on the initial sack for Hank's team.

The Evers clan lined up with the veteran George Sisler on first, Evers second, Gautreau short, and Leggett on the hot corner. Delaney, Greenfield and Taylor roamed in left, center and right, respectively, while Peery and Hearn pitched to Bill Cronin for Troy Jawn.

Tony Plansky did not engage in the practice session. The South Boston boy hurt a leg sliding in practice a couple of days ago, and was ordered to rest up a bit, by Doctor Painter, trainer of the club.

JONES AFTER 15

Percy Jones, one of the lefthanders on the roster of the Braves says he will win 15 games for the tribe this year.

Jones, one of the late arrivals at the camp, has become quite popular with his new clubmates.

Evers was boss of the Cubs when Jones made his major league debut.

Brandt and Hearn are the only other southpaws in the ranks of the Braves and while Brandt is regarded almost a sure bet this year, Jones forecast the fact today that he'll cop 15 games.

Strib Explains War With Chauffeur

W. L. Stribling Jr.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 26—Much of this ado stuff was made several years ago over a story which was headlined like this:

"STRIBLING FIGHTS HIS OWN CHAUFFER AND KNOCKS HIM OUT, OF COURSE!"

That was true: I fought a man who had been my chauffeur and I knocked him out.

But only one side of the story ever was told. As a result, many folks in the U. S. A. have cultivated the idea that on some barnstorming tours I fought my sparring partners or my chauffeur under different names.

While we are loafing around waiting for the ball to start Jack Sharkey and myself into action I want to tell the other side of that story.

BACK in 1925, father, mother, my brother Herbert, and myself made an automobile tour of the U. S. A.

We reached the Pacific Coast via the northern route and drove down the California coast to Los Angeles, where I fought Jimmy Delaney.

While training for that bout I met up with Red Fitzsimmons and sparred with him in a gymnasium.

When Red heard we were going to drive through Texas, he asked father if he could go along. His home was in Texas and he wanted to visit his mother.

"SURE," said father and Red left Los Angeles with us in our big bus, the condition being that he was to assist in the driving of the car and take care of mechanical troubles, etc.

I was booked to meet a fellow in El Paso but when we arrived the fighter could not be located. The promoter had a $1,000 advance sale and did not want to call off the match.

[illegible] father [illegible]

"Not a light heavyweight in town," replied the promoter.

"Get a soldier from the Army Post," suggested father.

"There isn't a fair sort of fighter in the post," was the promoter's answer.

AND then the promoter, who had learned that Fitzsimmons was a fighter, asked father:

"How about putting Fitzsimmons in the ring with your boy?"

Father at first [illegible] the idea. He pointed out that if I fought Fitzsimmons in an actual fight there might be a scandalous aftermath.

But the promoter, pleading desperately so as to insure his show for that night, finally influenced father to send in Fitzsimmons against me.

But father made this condition:

"It must be announced from the ring who Fitzsimmons really is and you must offer to refund money to anyone who wants it."

THE announcement was made in the ring before the battle began. Fitzsimmons was introduced as a fighter who had been my sparring partner and who just then was my chauffeur.

The crowd was told that it would be a fight anyway; that I would try as hard against Fitzsimmons as against any man in the world. And then this was added:

"Those who have bought tickets and do not care to see this fight can go to the box office and get their money refunded."

Quite a few persons took advantage of the refund idea, got their money back and walked out. But the main part of the mob remained.

I opened up on Fitzsimmons with both guns as soon as the bell rang but he was a clever fellow, fast and could take a punching. So it wasn't until the sixth round that I could knock him out.

Dazzy Vance Wants $25,000 to Sign

Clearwater, Fla., Feb. 26—It was learned here that Dazzy Vance, right-hand pitching ace of the Brooklyn Dodgers, is demanding a salary for 1929 of $25,000 before he signs a contract.

This is an increase of $4000 over the 1928 figures, it was revealed here today as Max Carey put the advance gang of athletes through their first workout of the season.

Carey refused to discuss the altercation between the pitcher and the club, although he voiced the opinion that the tangle soon would be straightened out. Vance already is regarded as one of the highest salaried players in baseball.

MR. BOSTON

By Jack Conway

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 26—The mystery concerning the [illegible] Mr. Boston was solved today [illegible]

[illegible]

"NOW for the big fight. It seems that everybody in the United States is clamoring for choice ringside seats. The boys who usually have the pick of things are in the poorest position. When Sharkey and Stribling were signed, they didn't think the show would be much of a success and so didn't bother to make reservations. They felt that if they wanted tickets they could get them at the last minute.

"Sharkey's early arrival in Florida stimulated interest in the show. Stribling's presence here also helped, while Jack Dempsey and Bill Carey proved sons of the dear old ballyhoo.

"This all tended to boom the ticket sale. Folks up North thought Jack Dempsey was joking when he declared the advance sale had passed $200,000 a week ago. They soon found out their error when they tried to line up choice seats.

"THERE are several thousand people here from Greater Boston. Most of them are combining a vacation with a trip to the fight. Then there are others who invested in Florida real estate [illegible]

"I BELIEVE the fight will help put Florida back on the map. Folks have stopped talking about hurricanes and are telling each other [illegible] conditions.

"Of course, things are pretty wide open right now, but it is possible for a sheriff or a flock of reformers to step in at a moment's notice and upset the works. I understand the authorities have agreed to forget the blue laws until after the fight. By that time the height of the season will have been passed."

Sharkey to Go After Strib From Gong

By Jack Sharkey

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 26—I am ready for my 10-round battle with Young Stribling which will be staged here tomorrow night.

[illegible]

I stand with [illegible] between 190 and [illegible] when I enter the ring, [illegible] Georgian. This weight [illegible] best.

[illegible] I climb through the ropes [illegible]

It is my plan to carry the battle [illegible] and I do not intend to give him a second's rest.

ROUGH him up every minute I am in the ring with him is my plan. I understand this is the way Paul Berlenbach beat Stribling.

He kept after him all the time and the Georgian didn't stand up well under the heavy campaigning.

The bout tomorrow night means a great deal to me. My entire future will be at stake. If I win I have agreed to meet Max Schmeling in New York in June while if I am beaten [illegible] I shall take on Jack Dempsey in September provided the former [illegible] a comeback.

ALL I ask of Stribling is that he refrain from holding. I hope he takes a few chances and lets his punches fly. That is what I [illegible]

The people who will attend the fight are entitled to some action for their money. It is up to Stribling and myself to furnish this action.

William P. Carey, vice-president of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, tells me the show has gone over big and that it will draw between $[illegible] and $400,000.

A BUSINESS WOMAN

Today's Short Story — An Office Romance

DORIS was [illegible] her success in the business world. Only twenty [illegible] she had a private office. [illegible] of the Monument [illegible] Company [illegible]

[illegible] proper form of address the private secretary of the president. She was always efficient and businesslike in her conduct and bearing. She wasted no time powdering her nose and gossiping like the other girls in the office.

But sometimes she was disturbed by a vague wonder if she was [illegible] something, dances and [illegible] moonlight rides like the other girls continually talked about.

[illegible] as they are, she often thought to herself with a little [illegible] of resentment. And she was [illegible]. Just as pretty, and prettier, but her beauty was like a frozen flower. There was no fragrance to it.

[illegible] when she [illegible] found a [illegible] Mr. Condry, the president [illegible] cold and was [illegible]

He said he would send his car for you [illegible] telephone [illegible] as she gave Doris the message.

"It's out there now. I saw it through the window. Mr. Condry's sure has got a good looking chauffeur."

Doris said "thank you," very primly, and then gathered her wraps and went out to the machine waiting at the curb. She had expected to see a limousine or a sedan but it proved to be a heavy [illegible]

The man at the wheel slid out and opened the door for her.

"Miss Fleming?" he asked.

"You're Mr. Condry's chauffeur, aren't you?" Doris replied. "Well, I hope you'll drive very carefully."

During the ride Doris was aware of the sideglances he shot at her. [illegible] their eyes met. She flushed and looked away. [illegible] the telephone operator had been right. He was good looking. She was sorry when the ride was over.

The next day he called for her [illegible] to Mr. Condry's home, for the employer's cold continued.

The third day she hoped that he would talk to her during the long ride but he didn't. Finally she spoke.

"Do you like being a chauffeur?" she asked.

"Oh, it's all right," he replied with a grin. "How do you like being a secretary?"

There was no further conversation.

The next day he drove fast and Doris was kept busy keeping her skirts from blowing over her knees. She was proud of her slim, straight legs, however, and secretly wondered if he admired them too.

She noticed that he seemed to be thinking deeply about something and just before the car reached Mr. Condry's house he spoke.

"How about going for a ride with me tonight?" he asked. "There's going to be a moon and we might stop some place to dance."

Doris avoided his eyes. She wanted to say yes, but something held her back. She almost thawed and then froze again into the perfect business woman.

"I don't even know your name," she said. "And, besides, I'm too busy to go to dances."

That night she regretted her refusal and spent a miserable evening. She knew that he would not have another chance to ask her because Mr. Condry was returning to the office the next day.

Doris surprised herself by crying a little [illegible] as she had seen other [illegible] he went to the [illegible] She called Mr. Condry's [illegible] to speak to the chauffeur.

[illegible]

He came the next evening. [illegible] before [illegible] had even spent [illegible] the first time in her life she was aware of her heart beating in her breast.

[illegible] a big gorgeous orb that hung over the road ahead of them. There was an arbored dance floor far out in the country and then the slow ride home when Jack Foster [illegible] drove with one [illegible]

Doris was surprised that a chauffeur could talk as he talked. [illegible] it was mere[illegible] wonder. It was enough that he was talking and saying the things he did. She leaned against his shoulder and let the wind blow in her face.

There were other rides, night after night, while the moon waxed and waned and grew full again. And finally there was the night when he stopped the car and took [illegible] "Will you marry me?"

[illegible] and she [illegible] no more of the private office.

"Now I want you to meet my [illegible]," and chuckled to himself. "He's losing a secretary but gaining a daughter-in-law."

"You see," he went on, still grinning, "my name is Jack Foster, but that's only part of it. The rest is [illegible] Foster Condry."

Doris put her head on his shoulder.

"I don't care what your name is," she said, "just so it's you."

Another fine short story tomorrow.

If Suitor Is Short of Stature

By Beatrice Fairfax

An Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

T[illegible] all heart problems that come [illegible] my observation may be roughly divided into two classes: the serious problem and that which is really not at all serious, although it may seem hopeless to the person who writes asking advice.

As for the problem that puzzles "Lovelorn," writer of the following letter—well, I wish there were no more serious troubles in the world. [illegible] every girl who reads these words [illegible] seemingly [illegible]

"Dear Miss Fairfax: [illegible] I have been going with a boy for two years. I am 17 and he is 20. We have a true [illegible] up together in the same neighborhood and during the past two years our friendship has developed into a beautiful love. Now please don't say that we don't know what we [illegible] we are only happy and contented [illegible]

"Here is my problem. My sweetheart is [illegible] one-half inch taller than I am. I am 5 feet 4 inches [illegible] He is good looking but [illegible]

"I don't mind his being short [illegible] so well but [illegible] family start kidding [illegible] I feel terrible. Do [illegible] height matters?

"I can't stop going with him [illegible] If only I [illegible] Please [illegible] I will be ever so grateful.

"LOVELORN."

Dear Lovelorn—If you think I am going to sympathize with you because your family "kid" you about your sweetheart, you are mistaken. Was there ever a girl with a family who was not "kidded" by said family about her beaux? Of course, the family should not do such things. But invariably the family does. And the [illegible] you decide to accept their kidding good humoredly, serenely and calmly, without being influenced by it one iota, the happier you will be and the sooner they will stop teasing you.

I well remember one young woman whose life was made miserable for months by a small brother whose teased her about "Baldy" as he [illegible] her very best friend [illegible] "Baldy" was an estimable young man quite charming [illegible] to twit her because her beau's hair was a bit prematurely thin. But brothers do such things, doubtless always have and always will.

Finally, my friends woke up to the fact that the only reason it was fun to tease her was because she was so very easily teased. Af[illegible] family [illegible] married [illegible] and lived happily ever since. Sometimes, you see, true stories do end that way.

My advice to you, dear "Lovelorn," is ignore the kidding of the family and be true to your own heart and common sense, in regard to this romance of yours.

Give up your friend because he is short? Well, I should hope not! Napoleon was short, much shorter than his wife, the Empress Josephine. Alexander the Great, conqueror of the world, was an extremely short man. His character, disposition and ability are fortunately, not to be measured by the feet and inches of a man's height.

Thanks for the warning, my dear. I shall not inform you that you do not know what you like because you are only 17. You will admit, however, I am sure that 17 and 20 are a little young for marriage or even bethrothal.

Wait a year: there is no hurry. Enjoy the sound friendship and wholesome affection that makes you and your friend so "happy and contended" when you are together. If the affection remains constant and you two continue to be thoroughly congenial, there seems no reason why your friendship should not lead to mutual, serious love.

At least, give love a chance. And when the time comes for making a decision—if it does come—be sure to measure your love for your sweetheart and his suitability as a life-partner, not by his height [illegible] but by the [illegible] the height of [illegible] ambition, and [illegible] of his character and love for you.

Fascinating Screen Star Tells New Beauty Secret

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—"People always admire a beautiful smooth skin," declares Clarence Brown, director for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and voices the experience of 39 movie directors. "Lux Toilet Soap gives my skin a satiny-smoothness," says Raquel Torres. Like nine out of every ten screen stars, this Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer beauty uses this white, fragrant soap. And in Hollywood all the great film studios have made it the official soap for all dressing rooms.

You can look lovely Tonight

Lighten Your Skin, Reduce Enlarged Pores, Banish Blackheads, Eruptions and Oily Skin

Five Minutes Works Wonders

The newest discovery in beauty culture is that creamed magnesia is much better for the complexion than any soap or cleansing cream. It beautifies the skin instantly, in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach. This is because skin impurities are acid. Doctors treat acid inside the body with milk of magnesia. And now, dermatologists are getting amazing results in banishing complexion faults with creamed magnesia. All you do is anoint your skin with it, massage and rinse with water. It's as simple as washing your face.

It reduces enlarged pores to the finest, smoothest texture almost as if by magic. Being astringent, it drives away the tell-tale signs of age. You will marvel at the effect of your first five-minute facial massage. It rejuvenates the skin so quickly that any woman can look lovely tonight, years younger. It's marvelous how magnesia dissolves blackheads, clears eruptions and corrects oily skin.

And because it is so mild, mothers use it instead of soap to bathe infants. It certainly is a blessing as a face wash for fine, sensitive skins that soap so easily irritates and coarsens. Not being a cold cream, it cannot grow hair on the face. It removes make-up and extracts impurities deep-set in the pores better than soap or cold cream. It changes dull, sallow skin to ivory-white and fades out freckles better than a bushel of lemons. Test it on those clogged nose pores that stand out so boldly. Let it whiten your neck. It will also keep your hands soft and white.

No More Ugly Nose Pores

Until recently, creamed magnesia was used only by New York doctors' wives, and nurses. But now the large druggists everywhere find it hard to keep enough on hand to supply the demand. To get genuine creamed magnesia, ask for Denton's Facial Magnesia. The dollar size holds three fifty-cent bottles. Get your magnesia today and look lovely tonight. It's Guaranteed!

DENTON'S Facial Magnesia

Makes poor skin lovely—keeps fine skin fine

NOTE: Do not hesitate to try this marvelous skin treatment at once. Thousands of delighted women have written they could not believe anything so simple could be so wonderful. But they were convinced when they saw so many friends suddenly get lovely complexions.

A Story of America's Mad Dance of Divorce

What Has Happened So Far

On the way from New York to Reno, DICK STUYVESANT meets FELICIA BRETT. They are strongly attracted to each other. DICK joins a bachelor friend, JOHN BERKELEY, nicknamed J. B. FELICIA goes to friends, DR. and MRS. HODGE. DICK sees her the next day lunching with young PEGGY HODGE and two college boys. He flirts with BETTY ROGERS, a pretty little Southerner in Reno for "The Cure," and that night attends a wild party. The next evening he meets FELICIA and the HODGES at JUDGE COOPER'S. While driving FELICIA home, DICK kisses her ardently and FELICIA does not resist him. ANN HODGE warns her that too marked friendliness with DICK may imperil her chance of obtaining custody of her six-year-old son. FELICIA declares she will go back to New York and get the boy.

The next day she gets a wire from her mother, MRS. HENLEY-MARTIN, in New York, telling her that ALEXANDER BRETT, her elderly husband, is on his way to Reno. She gets an airplane and leaves at once for New York. An hour afterwards, DICK and J. B. hear that a plane has fallen 70 miles east of Reno. They rush to the spot in an automobile.

Seizing it she found it pulled taut and used it as a help to climb to the one small window and she managed to wriggle out of the aperture and drop to the sand below. The terrified Hauwa unfastened the rope from a post just as Farraj came upon them. A wild exclamation broke from him but with the spring of an animal Hauwa plunged a dagger in his side.

The English girl's limbs felt like jelly, but the Berber seized her arm and dragged her along. In sight of the square she paused.

"We are safe now," she said. "Praise be to Allah I have avenged my mother."

"What on earth do you mean?" Jean stammered.

"It was Farraj who sold my mother as a slave," Hauwa explained, "because she, the poor one, was in debt to his house."

The crowd in the square fascinated her, almost blotted out the terrible scene she had just witnessed.

A solitary figure in the striped goat's-hair burnous of the northern mountains plucked cadences from a hollow gourd with three strings stretched across it.

If anyone threw him a coin he gave it to the nearest beggar.

A wind scuffled in the palms as the two girls pressed down towards the wadi where the caravan was in camp. It was a restless night full of small secret sounds. It must be much later than they thought for there was no sign of a fire. They ran the last few yards and stared unbelieving, across the empty hollow. "We've taken the wrong track," said Jean. "The tents must be farther up the wadi."

Hauwa was puzzled. They clutched each other, instinctively seeking reassurance, but there was no doubt about it. The caravan had gone.

In terror they wandered back to the square and the English girl pushed into the circle to listen to the audh player. She dared hardly believe her eyes. It was impossible, she told herself, yet all the world was changed because of a wild hope.

Once again the dervish looked at her and [illegible] was confirmed. It was [illegible] Verner.

Boan[illegible] felt secure [illegible]

The [illegible] silence ar[illegible] ing motion [illegible] loving [illegible] er plucked [illegible] led away [illegible]

None [illegible] Jean after a reluctant [illegible] "They [illegible] is not well [illegible] a one."

Presently [illegible] they found [illegible] impetuously [illegible] into her story, but Verner [illegible] her by saying it would be impossible for him to [illegible]

[illegible] the name of El Hamri [illegible] She would [illegible] safe [illegible] the [illegible] to send her south with the next passing caravan.

"My [illegible] I wish [illegible] but I suppose it's no good [illegible] It was one thing [illegible] this appalling journey with your own people, but [illegible] half Africa [illegible] disguise is sheer madness."

"You seem to be doing it most successfully yourself," countered Jean, irritated at his apparent lack of interest. He had not suggested coming to see her [illegible] take that for granted? She had to make sure. "There's so much I want to tell you—" she began, but Verner, who seemed to be listening for any sound in the sandy lanes, interrupted her. "I'm most awfully sorry, but it's impossible here. I'll explain in Thibesti if we ever get there. But you mustn't move out of the house till you leave this place [illegible] and [illegible] all [illegible] other."

Why [illegible] at him.

"That I'm afraid I can't explain. Other [illegible] interests than yours are at stake."

The whisper of "El Hamri" acted as a talisman and for three days the girls were hospitably entertained in a merchant's house.

The fourth evening the merchant [illegible] outskirt of the [illegible] caravan waited [illegible] the sunrise. It consi[illegible] family [illegible] with half a dozen drivers [illegible] fighting slaves. With this commonplace party the two girls could travel in return for their services to Fatima, the only woman in the caravan.

For a week they all moved slowly south and a sense of peace enveloped them.

At last they reached the edge of the dune belt which guards the string of oases west of Fufarn [illegible]

Night slipped down like a curtain and there was no moon, as two girls lay stretched out on a striped orange blanket.

The silence was intense but it [illegible] caravan [illegible] A woman [illegible] [illegible]

Sick, physically and mentally [illegible] bloodshot eyes [illegible] hour must have passed.

With the greatest conscious effort of her life [illegible] the camp [illegible] forced herself [illegible] at each crumpled figure, but everywhere life was extinct.

The [illegible] together [illegible] ers ha[illegible] ly.

Jean [illegible] that there was neither food nor water among the wreckage [illegible] she grasped the full horror of the situation.

On uncertain feet, she wandered from the tragic camp and sat down in the next hollow. At least she would be able to die alone and decently.

The night passed and the sun rose red the next morning. Toward noon she felt her senses reeling and sank into a semi-coma [illegible] strange shadows moving on the [illegible] nothing really mattered. Some [illegible] cold [illegible] across her parched lips. Her dream [illegible] had come true. She seemed to hear a voice calling, "Dearest, my Own, open your eyes."

And then after a long time her eyes opened. Was she alive? she wondered. She stared about her and saw with amazement [illegible] Verner [illegible] far away. With him was El Hamri.

He jumped up as she moved and wanted to know if she could go on. And then to Jean's subconscious mind came back the endearment she had seemed to hear in her dream. She could not resist asking, "So I've become your business again?"

[illegible] You were always [illegible] from the moment I saw you—"

"What [illegible] luck [illegible]" she asked.

"Let me bring [illegible] the coffee [illegible] then I'll tell you," said Verner, but he didn't explain very much. He was trying to get information about the old devil of a Prophet [illegible]

[illegible] he was following [illegible]

"Tell me what [illegible]" though the man was [illegible] mouthful she ate as [illegible] that at present, but the worst of it is if it turns up true [illegible] I'll have to be free to [illegible] out for the blank at a second's notice. That's why I was so beastly [illegible] in the town. I've not [illegible] got to see this thing through before I can set about [illegible]

"Are you going to leave me here?" asked the girl with a glint in her still sunken eyes.

Verner smiled at her because otherwise he would have kissed her. And [illegible] afternoon [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] the scene [illegible] might save hundreds of lives was growing cold in front of him.

A little later a sandstorm [illegible] the desert into a [illegible] whirlpool.

Suddenly, without the slightest warning, they ran into the midst of another blundering caravan, and, to the girl's utter amazement, Jim pulled out a revolver. "It's Hillson," he said, his face grim.

Jean stared at him in amazement. Surely two Englishmen were not going to shoot each other if they met by accident in the middle of a Sahara sandstorm! Then she remembered that, to all intents and purposes Verner was an Algerian dervish with wild black hair and an effective scar which puckered up one cheek.

For a second they were almost on top of a tall yellow-eyed man who braced against the wind, hung on to a shrieking rope while his men struggled with canvas and poles. Jean had just time to remember that, muffled in the Algerian's burnous, she was unrecognizable, before their camel swung clear of the bellying tent and, once again, they were beating into the storm.

For a long time the camel staggered through the madness of the elements, Jean deaf to El Hamri's suggestions, because she dared not remain in the vicinity of Hillson's camp, but she was wild with anxiety [illegible] Verner, who was separated from them in the storm.

The dawn came as clear as a mountain pool but the only thing within sight was the last shreds of the storm whirling into the desert. There was not a sign of Verner.

"He [illegible] at the next wells," said El Hamri as they [illegible] the Algerian [illegible] his [illegible] anxious expression [illegible] fearing pursuit.

In spite of the girl['s] [illegible] he [illegible]

After twenty-four anxious hours [illegible] which [illegible] been [illegible] worried to keep the Algerian concerted [illegible] a reconnaissance in search of Verner.

Reluctantly he set off but first he hid the saddle-bags in some scrub and ordered Jean to keep out of sight if any [illegible] passed.

The girl promised and waited [illegible] at a go [illegible] an hour [illegible] having nothing to do [illegible] caution and walked up to the top of a sandridge so that [illegible] a band of riders bore down [illegible] she was [illegible]

There were about a dozen and they were Touareg [illegible] their white robes streamed behind them [illegible] faces were covered with the blue veil which the desert outlaw [illegible] even to eat or in presence of their women.

It was only when Jean [illegible] the glint of pistols that she realized she was cut off from her hiding place. Already one of the [illegible] riders had seen her and turning his camel by a twist of the single rein, bore down on her with a shout. The girl drew herself up right. It was useless to run away or to try and resist. Proudly she faced the dark warrior, prepared for the worst.

But the le[illegible] with eager eyes on her half-revealed beauty signed to her to come back to the palms, where his companions were already digging for water.

They were tall thin men with bold eyes. By the time the girl reached them, a camel loaded with a red-curtained basoor, was driven into the embryo camp and her captor motioned the girl toward it.

Jean obeyed with relief for [illegible] raiding party [illegible] women. But when the curtain parted they revealed the anxious face of Hauwa.

"Thank heaven they didn't kill you!" exclaimed Jean, realizing she had fallen into the hands of the raiders who had attacked the Nigerian's camp.

"Allah have pity!" wailed Hauwa. "They will sell us all as slaves!"

During the week which elapsed before they reached Jof they were well fed and kindly treated [illegible] quiet [illegible] the Berber girl.

Hauwa [illegible] were [illegible] for the girls were herded [illegible] a stable yard [illegible] to be auctioned [illegible]

Danderine does more to bring out the natural color, the gleam and lustre of your hair, than shampoos or brilliantine. It removes that oily film from it, gives it new life and lustre. It cleanses and invigorates the scalp; helps overcome dandruff. Danderine is delightfully fragranced; isn't oily, doesn't show. All drug stores have the generous 35c bottles.

THE BAER FACTS -:- By 'BUGS' BAER

THE question before the Committee on Nobody's Business is whether the young lady of 1929 shall be pleasingly plump or skeletonishly thin.

The question that puzzles the young lady of 1929 also puzzled the young lady of 1898.

And in some cases it's the same young lady.

The only way we can misjudge the future is by the mistakes of the past.

There are numerous male doctors who advise their patients to diet in an effort to slough off surplus poundage. Every woman likes to scoff heartily. Until the time arrives when she strokes her three chins and reflects:

"I am carrying too many spares."

So she becomes a dietitian in an effort to slenderize her double silhouette. She will live for months on lemons and cucumbers. Which combination is not really a diet but a traffic problem.

The problem being how to prevent the lemon, going down, from passing the cucumber, coming up.

Now, no woman can be elected Miss America if she has a shape like Asia.

But shapes are shapes. And, once established, it is difficult to veto them.

Let us start with the Revolutionary era. The girls of that period looked like semi-colons. They wore bustles. Some artificial. Some real.

But George Washington thought they were beautiful. And should we argue with George?

The ladies of the Civil War were also beautiful in their hollow bonnets and their pantaloons. They had very little feet. And we want to warn you in advance that feet are things which cannot be reduced by dieting.

And then the girl of a slightly mildewed calendar made famous by Charles Dana Gibson. She was the Rose of Yesterday.

But, as we look at her wasp waist and weeping willowy form, we realize that the Rose of Yesterday was mostly all stem.

When a modern flapper claims she is on a diet, you can bet that she hasn't been invited out to eat that night by the boy friend.

But let Oscar pick up the dinner check and she remembers that she has missed seven meals and that now is the time to catch up.

We would say that the duration of a flapper's dieting depends on environment, circumstances or any other name for a telephone call

If nature intended you to get fat you may as well stop snubbing your shadow and get used to it. If you are of the svelte type you can eat all you want.

A woman on a diet is a lady who only eats when she thinks no one is looking. We have yet to find one who was so sincere in her mono-famine that she put storm doors on the refrigerator.

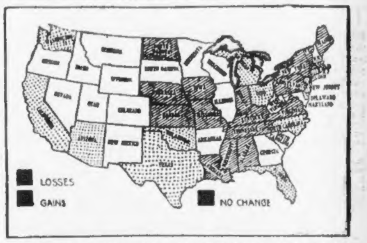
Get Solidly Behind This Smashing Campaign



FOR some time we have been making a quiet survey of the irritating noises that make modern metropolitan life almost unbearable. The above map shows the alarming conditions, as compared to a year ago. It is an established fact that the nation, as a whole, is on edge—and unless something is done this country will be a nervous wreck. Therefore, we have decided to promote Stop-That-Noise-Week! This seems to be the only practical solution. And there is no time like the present for a start. Let everyone do his or her part to put over Stop-That-Noise Week with a bang!

MOTHERS STOP! CHILDS COUGH

KIDS LIKE TO TAKE THIS SIMPLE REMEDY

"My children love to take the cough and cold remedy our old doctor recommended. It banishes a cold, fortifies them all winter, and helps their appetites.

There is no dope, alcohol, chloroform, etc., in it. A barrel of it would do no harm.

Almost like ice cream and tastes so nice kids cry for Lin-O-Nine, which contains wholesome, beneficial Oils of Flaxseed, Eucalyptus, Cassia, Betula, Irish Moss and Glycerine, churned into a cream flavored with Wintergreen. Yum! Yum! It's good, the kiddies say, according to thousands of wise mothers who always have a bottle of Lin-O-Nine in the house. Better than Cod Liver Oil as a tonic—and it tastes nice.

Doctors recommend Lin-O-Nine for grown-ups, too. 50c and $1.00 sizes at druggists or send dollar bill for large 15-oz. bottle, parcels post return mail. Kerr Chemical Co., Brentwood, Md.

ED WYNN'S CLOWNING SCORES NEW TRIUMPH AT SHUBERT

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

THE name sticks and he likes it. Ed Wynn remains the "perfect fool;" he acclaims the fact shamelessly, and in three hours of persistent clowning in "Manhattan Mary," current at the Shubert, he proves his own case to the full satisfaction of every observant citizen. Any jury would convict him on sight. Ed Wynn's comedy is made to order for the man who shakes and sways when he laughs; there's little of the tee-hee stuff in either gag or situation—it's mostly haw-haw. The theater rocked with laughter, for Wynn again was the "perfect fool"—the steady toiling, incessant buffoon.

Ed Wynn

"MANHATTAN MARY" provided rather intricate background for the interjections of Mr. Wynn. It was musical comedy with a story — romance, drama, night clubs and gangsters. The texture was simple, with the usual novelties that skilled designers of these things can always devise. But the structure itself was massive; a charming little love story moving around in the setting of a George White musical revue.

Spectacles and illusions tempted the inquisitive eye — and pleased it. Moving scenery expanded into broad stairways, down which tramped the ladies of the chorus, not too heavily adorned. Rich draperies festooned the stage; in the folds were charming bits of living, fluttering femininity, buttoned thereto in some mysterious manner.

But not in its mechanical aspects alone did "Manhattan Mary" reveal its stately form. Mr. Wynn found himself flanked on all sides by beauty in vast numbers, and by dancing teams of great spirit and tireless feet. Any musical play invested with the talents of Doree Leslie would have difficulty in avoiding success. This blondish little girl not only danced in rare form, but she tugged at your heart and made it beat a little faster. It was that old thing, charm, once again working its way across the footlights. Marguerite Ball and the Webb Sisters gave fresh evidence that lithe bodies, well trained, proved their might in making a musical play safe and secure.

There were voices, of course, but in common honesty it must be said they did not, at any point in the proceedings, catch up with the scenery, the ensembles, nor even the pretty love story of Mary Brennan and her boy friend, Jimmy. Mr. Wynn himself guarded against any lapses that might occur. He played all over the stage and into the auditorium; he turned gangster for the good of the story, and in one rash moment stepped into the pit and conducted the orchestra. All these things may be accepted as the regular routine of a "perfect fool."

In the matter of melody, "Manhattan Mary" fared uncommonly well. It was timely composition amply tuned to meet dance numbers, night club jazz or the lilting strains of the hard pressed balladist. The piece was as funny as Ed Wynn could make it, which was more than enough. It was a pleasing mixture of what the careful playgoer likes in musical entertainment, frolicksome, tuneful and clean.

Failed in Business, Needs Education

By LOUISE RICE
Noted Graphologist

DEAR MISS RICE: The writer of this is a person who has always had great ambitions and yet could never achieve anything in 20 years struggling in business.

DISAPPOINTED, Melrose.

I this is a person had great ambition never achieve

No one could know better than a graphologist how earnest and sincere a nature you have, how truly you have struggled, how hard you have worked. Therefore, bearing that in mind, I ask you not to be hurt when I tell you exactly what is the matter.

LACK EDUCATION

In the first place, you are much handicapped by lack of the right education. This is shown in your letter formations; also by your poor spelling of common words. In the second place, this writing of yours tells me that you have never taught yourself to concentrate. You are too easily distracted, too apt to work "at loose ends."

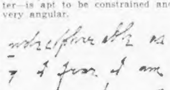
Do not feel, however, that you are too late. Your writing shows that your mind is just as open to impressions and to development as it ever was. I suggest a year of night school, while you do anything at all in the day that will not exhaust you too much, so that your mind will be clear and fresh for study. You will find that the classes are full of adults, often people over 60, as full of enthusiasm and interest as any child.

Next, turn your attention carefully to the past and estimate what really made your failures. Try to get away from yourself and look dispassionately at you. Try to estimate the one real line of business that you want to enter and then, at the end of the year, with a fresh grip, go and try it.

It's your own attitude of mind and heart that will make the difference, I assure you. You have every possibility. You have every power. It's just a matter of putting them to use.

HOW TO DO IT

People who think with directness, persistence and instinctive (not acquired) concentration, write an angular handwriting in which the rhythm is a jerk, and in which the capital I—that revealing letter—is apt to be constrained and very angular.



[illegible] is
I I from I am
[illegible] home I

In the specimen under consideration today this graphological picture is completely illustrated. The wide spaces between the words show clear thought and the very short letter connections, with the angular formations of letters, the capital I — and the jerky rhythm, show the thinker who is shrewd, acute and exact and whose mental processes are penetrating.

NOTE. Send sample of your handwriting to Miss Louise Rice, noted graphologist, for analysis. Write your name and complete address on unruled paper, in ink or pencil. To cover clerical costs enclose 10c in silver or stamps. Also enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The individual analysis will be returned to you within a period of one or two weeks. Letters will not be published if sender so requests. Miss Rice has a number of letters which she cannot answer because of wrong or inadequate addresses.

Speed Girl

ALICE DAY
Gets her traffic signals mixed and lands with a rush in court. All this in the film farce, "Red Hot Speed," at the Keith-Albee.

DENNY FILM AT KEITH-ALBEE

It is quite in order to associate the genial Reginald Denny with a title like "Red Hot Speed." But in the case of this new dialogue film at the Keith-Albee, much of the "speed" is lacking. It is Denny's first venture with the talkies. Perhaps that is the reason. The action is too slow for him. Nevertheless, the story is funny and the star's antics are always amusing.

Denny plays the role of a young assistant district attorney, pressing a court campaign against speeders. His troubles begin when a pretty society girl, arraigned for speeding, is paroled in his custody.

She happens to be the daughter of the newspaper editor backing the anti-speeding campaign. This complex situation leads to a series of halarious scenes, in which Denny is trying to prevent the girl's father from finding out about her escapades.

Alice Day is the girl. Others in the cast are Thomas Ricketts as the editor, De Witt Jennings as the judge, Fritzi Ridgeway as a slavey, Charles Byer and Hector V. Sarno.

On the Keith-Albee stage, Stella Mayhew, the dark lady who sang "Hallelujah" in "Hit the Deck," is the featured vaudevillian.

Lenten Musicales Given at Y. W. C. A.

A series of Lenten musicales is being given in the living room of the new building of the Boston Young Women's Christian Association, at the corner of Stuart and Clarendon sts., each Thursday afternoon, at 5 o'clock.

NEW GRIFFITH FILM AT THE STATE

By LEO GAFFNEY

That great maestro of the films, D. W. Griffith, is still dividing his allegiance between the intelligentsia and the mob. His new one, "Lady of the Pavements" at Loew's State, can be summed up as its half dozen predecessors, namely, brilliantly made sugar. No matter how sentimental the story—and sentiment is the Griffith forte—the great director always insists that his players act. And he always manages to film his production in the sincerest manner possible, even though he holds tongue in check all the way through. His settings, too, are always contrived with as much care as if he were at work on a masterpiece.

Jetta Goudal

"The Lady of the Pavements" is no masterpiece, but there is plenty in it to get excited about. If you don't particularly care whether the little cabaret girl, played by Lupe Velez, marries the rich and handsome Count, there is always the fascination of watching a master at work.

SCENES IN PARIS

The scenes are in Paris during the time of Napoleon the Third. There is the Cafe of the Smoking Dog, reeking of roast meat and good wine. Somehow, Griffith can do these things as nobody else. And then there are the scenes of Society whither the lady of the cabaret is sent to "put up" to the count in order that later she may disgrace him. When Griffith wants splendor he gets it. A spacious and shiny ballroom, crystal candelabra, rich food piled on the table, elegant ladies and gentlemen. Class!

The players, too, behave better under Griffith. There is Jetta Goudal, looking more "dangerous" than ever as the wicked Diane, who "hires" the poor cabaret girl to beguile the count after he had refused to marry her. "You said you'd rather marry a woman of the streets; well, you have!" This is the nice revenge plotted by Diane.

WORTH SEEING

With nothing more vital to do than wear smart uniforms and "stand 'round," William Boyd manages quite well with the role of the Count. (Another nod to Mr. Griffith.) Miss Velez, too, is able to stir up quite a little sympathy for herself, and all the rest of the players live up to appearance. Yes, indeed, "The Lady of the Pavements" is decidedly well worth seeing.

For other State features there is a melodious appearance of Phil Spitalny and band via Movietone, and some good dancing on the stage by the "Masterpiece" ensemble. "Milo," the human question mark, is also to be seen.

BROADWAY STAR ACT TOPLINER AT KEITH'S

These Keith programs do hold up their end in the way of amusing refreshment.

This week, as in the past weeks, the bill at the B. F. Keith Memorial Theater is one without a soft or dull spot anywhere—even when Adolphe Menjou decided to marry the girl—as everyone knew he would.

The lead-off in the week's entertainment is Benny Davis, backed by a decidedly clever group of singers, dancers and instrumentalists whom he designates as the "Broadway Stars." And if not yet, they probably will be.

Benny Davis' act is happily arranged, with even Mrs. Davis contributing excitement. The night club atmosphere prevails—and you want to watch those two blondes. Benny calls up some of the songs whose authorship has made him known wherever there are means for making melody.

Steve Freda and Johnny Palace, two former Boston newsboys, are amusing in their original skit "Ketch On."

You know what to expect from Miss Juliet, and you are never disappointed unhappily. Her present one-girl revue even excels her past work. Paul Sells assists at the piano and Harry Delf is responsible for the material used by Miss Juliet.

The rest of the vaudeville bill is contributed by the Bonta troupe of six gymnasts; Homer B. Mason and Marguerite Keeler in Mason's latest travesty, "Money, Money, Money," and the Original Honeyboys, presenting "the evolution of black notes."

There is the usual reel of news events of the day, and in the movie that winds up the performance Adolphe Menjou plays the same free-living philanderer that has been his forte now for many months. He was a foreign nobleman, and she was a wealthy girl. And there you are.

Another excellent week at Keith's.

Swedish Professor Harvard Lecturer

Professor John Roosval of the University of Stockholm will begin a series of three illustrated lectures at the Fogg Art Museum, Harvard University, this afternoon at 4:30.

These lectures are open to the public free. Today's topic will be "Romanesque Architecture in Sweden and Denmark."

Thursday afternoon, at the same hour, Professor Roosval will discuss "Gothic Architecture," and Friday afternoon, "Modern Swedish Architecture."

The Other Man at Hollis Next Week

Lester Bryant will bring to the Hollis Street Theater Monday a play that embodies drama, comedy and a bit of farce. It is called "The Other Man" and is the work of Vincent Lawrence, a Boston writer who was the author of "Two Fellows and a Girl" and "In Love with Love." William Boyd will portray the leading male role and Edna Hibbard will be the girl of the story.

Week's Features

BOWDOIN—Thirty-seventh Anniversary Week. "A Lady of Chance" and "Beau Broadway" for four days; starting Thursday, "Synthetic Sin" and "Beyond the Sierras."

HOWARD—(Burlesque) "Sugar Babies," with Harry Fields.

GLOBE—"On Trial," Vitaphone all talking adaptation of famous stage play; starting Thursday, "Marriage by Contract" and "Gang War."

'SHANNONS' AT ST. JAMES

One must admire James Gleason, author of "The Shannons of Broadway," which opened last night at the St. James Theater, because he is an author who is able to interpret the atmosphere of "backstage" in situations and conversations which give the average theater goer who has never set foot across the footlights a very real and vivid idea of what goes on behind the scene when the curtain is down.

The story concerns Micky and Emma Shannon, two song and dance artists stranded by the failure of their show in a small New England town.

Their fighting blood is fired by the cold reception accorded them by the proprietor of the country inn, who has suffered before at the hands of traveling actors. Before they are well aware of what they are getting into they have bought the inn with a part of their hard-earned savings, and are engaged in outwitting an overdone villain, restoring a lovelorn couple to one another's arms, and incidentally making their own fortunes.

The conversation consists largely of one vaudeville gag after another which were received with roars of laughter by a large and enthusiastic audience. Walter Gilbert, as Micky Shannon, gave an excellent portrayal of a hard-boiled, easy-going ham actor. Ivy Merton was a very convincing Effy, impetuous, but quickly moved to sympathy.

Bradlee Martin did an excellent piece of comedy in the part of a country shyster. Pa and Ma Swanzey, the suspicious innkeeper and his wife, were played very realistically by George R. Taylor and Jessica Newcombe.

B. C. Military Club to Meet this Week

The Boston College Military Club will meet this week in an effort to attract more students to membership. John F. Mungovan, '29, is in charge of all military tactics, and has issued a call for those interested. William Ward, '30, has likewise issued a call for all experienced in fencing. Plans are being made to hold outdoor rifle meets with other colleges.

Coming Events

Balieff's Chauve-Souris will occupy the Majestic for two weeks starting next Monday.

"Interference," a mystery drama, will have its first Boston presentation at the St. James next Monday.

"The Other Man," a comedy by Vincent Lawrence, will take the stage next Monday.

NEW REVIEW AT THE GAYETY

"Burlesque Review," at the Gayety, is loaded with burlesque specialties, good settings, elaborate costumes, pretty girls and a barrel of humor. The activities of Ray Read and Charlotte Rae, as well as Tommy Miller, White and Moir, Jack Wald and Edythe Carson bring laughter. In addition the now-famous "Whooper Girl," La Villa Maye, introduces some of her own specialties to have the audience with her from the start.

La Villa Maye

Two of the novel bits are "A Rural Railroad Station," and "Mexican Border," both of which afford full opportunities for the whole cast to contribute to the fun-making.

Charlotte Rae, soubrette, scores heavily; while White and Moir, in their own singing specialty, go over big. Tommy Miller, second comic, with Ray Read, keep humor well to the forefront.

Morris Gest Shows Russian Art Exhibit

A distinctive and unusual exhibit of "The Theater International," under the direction of Morris Gest, is now on display in Sargent Hall at the Public Library.

The color plates and photographs of La Saison Russe, the Moscow Art Theater and of Balieff's Chauve-Souris, make an interesting and beautiful display of contemporary Russian art.

The exhibit has been assembled in connection with Gest's presentation of Balieff's Chauve-Souris, coming to the Majestic Theater, Monday, March 4, for two weeks. To it will be added the original sketches for this year's entirely new production.

ORPHEUM FILM OF GOLD RUSH

"The Trail of '98," fashioned for the screen from Robert W. Service's familiar story of the Klondike gold rush, is the feature at Loew's Orpheum this week. Thrills aplenty are shown in the new film, which boasts an all-star cast including such favorites as Dolores Del Rio, Ralph Forbes, Harry Carey, Karl Dane and Tully Marshall.

Clarence Brown, the director, has succeeded in filming some mighty, spectacular scenes — namely, a gigantic snow slide, the Chilkoot pass, the White Horse rapids, and the burning of Dawson City.

On stage this week, Caesar Rivoli and his company of singers head the exceptionally smart bill. They offer "Memories of the Opera," a series of excerpts from famous operas.

A bright variety act is presented by Denis Chabot and Nonette Tortini, whose versatility includes comedy, songs, dances and instrumental bits. Alice Deyo and company please with a novelty dance turn.

Moran, Warner and Margie are seen in an excellent "collegiate" act. Mankin, billed as "the frog man," proves himself an adept contortionist.

Continuing Shows

COPLEY—"The Whispering Gallery." One of Mr. Clive's best importations in mystery drama.

COLONIAL—Polly Walker in "Billie." Briskly moving musical comedy, set off by excellent dancing.

WILBUR—"The Trial of Mary Dugan." Genevieve Tobin sobs her way into the hearts of a sympathetic jury.

URGE FLAG UNITS BE FORMED AT ONCE

CONTEST IS SPLENDID SUCCESS

educate a boy or girl in your neighborhood?

In the patriotic Flag Contest now being conducted by the United States Flag Association lies the opportunity.

Whether or not the boy or girl wins the National Award, they may prove to be the winners in the Regional Contest. This means a trip to Washington and to the various patriotic shrines of America, a two weeks' trip with all expenses paid, together with the awarding of medals of honor.

Then again for the next three boys and the next three girls, runners-up in the Regional Contest, scholarships valued at $200 each have been made available to the contestants.

Following these amazing awards, which are the greatest ever offered in any contest, there are honorable mentions and testimonials as well. Has there been a contest ever conducted by any association that offers so much to the boy or girl in your territory, that has so much patriotism and education, as the present Flag Contest?

Therefore, the Flag Contest Editor urges you to assist the youth of New England by taking an active part in the formation of local contest units so that New England may have the opportunity of sending one of her boys and one of her girls around the world.

BOOKLET READY

For the benefit of the numerous young folk who are at present participating in the nationwide patriotic Flag Contest now being sponsored by the United States Flag Association, a very attractive booklet which contains all the information necessary to answer the 75 questions which from the basis of the contest has been prepared.

The book, "The American Flag: Its Glory and Grandeur," is the work of Col. James A. Moss, head of the flag association, West Point graduate, and author of numerous military and patriotic textbooks.

The booklet in question can be had by all contestants and other interested persons by sending 25 cents to the United States Flag Association, 923 Fifteenth st. N. W., Washington, D. C. It must be understood, however, that the purchase of this book is in no wise obligatory—it has been prepared merely to aid those who wish concise information in preparing the answers to the list of questions.

The book, containing 128 pages, is profusely illustrated with photographs and sketches which graphically set forth the history of the American flag and which also make apparent the various ways of displaying the flag in correct form. Orders for this book should not, however, be sent to the Flag Contest Editor, but to the association's offices in Washington.

All boys and girls between the ages of 14 and 18, who have not yet entered this great competition can, by entering now, attain exactly the same footing as those who began their work when the contest was first announced.

They will in no wise be penalized for their late start. The questions which contestants are required to answer to compete are being printed in the Boston Evening American. Complete lists of all questions previously printed will be sent to any person interested on request to the Flag Contest Editor of this paper.

Today's Flagism

On February 26, 1869, the fifteenth amendment to the Constitution was adopted. This amendment, aimed specifically for the benefit of the Negro race, protects the rights of citizenship, with proviso that no citizen shall forfeit his rights because of "race, color or previous condition of servitude." The American Flag, which has gone hand in hand with the Constitution, also recognizes no race or creed when it comes to affording protection to all who dwell beneath its protecting glory.

FREE WORLD TRIPS

A majority of the questions, it might be said, are of such a nature that the answers are readily apparent to the average school boy and girl.

In addition to answering the 75 questions, contestants must write a brief essay on any phase of Old Glory's career in which they may feel interested. Submission of the answers and the essay is all that is necessary for the contestant to do in order to become eligible for one of the remarkable travel and scholastic prizes which will go to the winners.

Two boys and two girls will be given free trips around the world and 18 boys and 18 girls will be taken on a two weeks' trip through the Eastern States to visit the spots where American history has been made. These winners, together with 72 other fortunate youngsters who make high marks, will be given scholarships worth $200, the recipients to pick the school or institution of learning in which the scholarships are to be used.

The Boston Evening American tomorrow will print another set of eight questions.

All information regarding the Flag Contest will be gladly forwarded to those interested in conducting local Flag units.

Attention

Any school or organization that has not yet received an invitation to conduct a Flag Contest from the United States Flag Association need not wait for such an invitation but may communicate directly with the Flag Contest Editor of the Boston Evening American. All information will be gladly furnished as will all supplies necessary to conduct a Contest free of cost.

2 MORE STARS OF BROADWAY FOR FILMS

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Copyright, 1929, Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 26—Who do you think is headed in the direction of our Hollywood? Three guesses. None other than Hal Skelly, who made the part of Skid in the stage play, "Burlesque," something to remember in the long, cold winter days. Skelly will play for Paramount the role he created on the stage.

John Cromwell and Edward Sutherland, directors of "Burlesque," are getting ready to welcome Skelly to the home fireside. Nancy Carroll, as we have stated some 39 times, will play opposite Skelly.

They tell me that the dialogue written by George Manker Waters, co-author of the play, is all that any talkie could possibly wish. I hate to enthuse so early for how do I know that all they tell me at Paramount will come true? But we certainly hope so for with a few more snappy all-talkies we will have the stage getting competition that will be difficult to meet.

I MUST say for Roland Young that he kept his own counsel when he accepted an offer made him from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for he told no one that he was heading in the direction of Hollywood. He was so silent that most folk thought he was coming West to play the role in "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney" that he created on the stage.

Instead of playing opposite Norma Shearer, Young, who is credited with being one of Broadway's really efficient actors, will have the male lead in "The Green Ghost." Capt. John Loder, who is in reality a British officer, will be himself in the picture, the role second in importance to that of Young.

* * *

SOMETHING in knowing how to play a reporter. So few movie actors ever get the right slant on newspaper life. Roscoe Karns, who played Hildy Johnson in "The Front Page" and scored a big local hit on the stage, is going to take what he learned in that play and repeat it in "Copy," a newspaper story he is about to make, with Norman Huston directing.

"Copy" is by Kendall Banning and has a good title. Let's hope it will be worthy of the honor of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, for M.G.M. is the company signing the versatile Karns. James Donlin, one of the best comedy reliefs in "The Front Page," will also take himself and his talents to M.G.M. to play in "Copy."

LOOKS as if James Gleason and friend wife, Lucile Webster Gleason, and son, Russell, are in Hollywood for keeps. Every time Jimmy Gleason hears the call of Broadway some one in Hollywood beckons him to a studio and puts him to work. He will write the dialogue for "High Voltage" and that ought to keep him busy for a couple of weeks. Why should he go to New York when he can make more money in Hollywood and have a little home life? That is a thing that is intriguing the average actor, who is beginning to change his mode of life and go to bed before sunrise.

THAT "Minstrel Show" of Gus Edwards sounds as if it might be another "Broadway Melody." There are plenty of catchy songs and good gags. Conrad Nagel will be the interlocutor, and Conrad is practicing his negro dialect. Speaking of "Broadway Melody," no Broadway musical comedy hit has ever had the number of successful songs. Everywhere you go you hear them. This is the first motion picture to establish song hits. Everybody under contract to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, it is said, will have a part in "The Minstrel Show." M.G.M.'s own particular revue, I calls it.

ANY recommendation of voice is cherished these days by the actor in Hollywood who in most cases is studying hard. Alma Rubens, who only a few weeks ago made a microphone number in "She Goes to War," has been highly complimented by Henry King on the quality of her voice. That ought to interest other producers, for the combination of Miss Rubens' beauty and her voice is not easily duplicated. Miss Rubens will be well in a few weeks and ready to listen to offers from other producers who are looking for voices that register.

IF conferences mean anything, Tommy Meighan's next, "The Argyle Case," ought to be a humdinger. I know I shouldn't use slang like that. It's not done in our best Hollywood social circles, but it is so expressive. A few days ago Tommy and seven experts were closeted with Darryl Zanuck's office planning Tommy's next picture. Howard Bretherton will direct and H. B. Warner will play one of the big talkie numbers.

* * *

Meat Specialist

IN DEMONSTRATION

Miss Inez S. Willson Moffett Studios photo, who will show how the less popular cuts of meat can be made into attractive dishes in her lecture Thursday night at 100 Arlington st.

Housewives of Boston are to be given an opportunity to clear up some of their problems of meat buying and cooking.

Miss Inez S. Willson, home economics specialist of the National Live Stock and Meat Board, which has headquarters in Chicago, is to lecture on the different meats and demonstrate with the actual product at 7:30 on Thursday evening at 100 Arlington st., according to an announcement by Miss Daurice F. Darling, director of the home service department of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company.

The use of all cuts of meat for the sake of both variety and economy, is said to be one of the valuable points upon which the demonstration will be based. Attention will be called to the fact that 85 per cent of the consumer demand is for only about 25 per cent of the meat carcass, in the case of beef. This 25 per cent includes what are commonly considered by the consumer as the choice cuts.

It is Miss Willson's theory that the cuts of meat which are little in demand are just as nutritious as those in heavy demand and may be made just as palatable.

The National Live Stock and Meat Board, with which Miss Willson is associated, is an organization representing all branches of the live stock and meat industry from producer to consumer.

The meat to be used in this demonstration will be supplied by the Uphams Corner Market.

As Others See Us

The Shotgun Bride Will Become a Grass Widow

Pacifists and other simpletons who think the Kellogg Pact is a real move to end war should study the cartoon from the London Standard, printed on this page. Better than pages of explanation, it shows us ourselves as others see us.

It depicts the United States reluctantly agreeing to live with the pact—until the day comes to live without it.

The British artist calls it marriage a la mode, which may be translated into plain American as the shotgun wedding.

In shotgun weddings the bridegroom goes to the altar to save appearances. Nobody with a grain of sense expects the marriage to take.

That is precisely what has happened, and will happen again, with the Kellogg Pact. Its friends and relatives told the Senate, "You ain't doin' right by our little girl. You'll have to make an honest woman out of her." The Senate kept the little girl waiting six weeks at the church before it walked down the aisle with her to the strains of Organist Borah's wedding march. And then, by "interpreting" its promise to love, honor and cherish her, it made the ceremony a farce.

As Mr. Glass, of Virginia, aptly said, "It is not worth a postage stamp in the direction of accomplishing permanent international peace."

The British know it, as this cartoon clearly shows. So do the French, Germans, Italians, Russians and Japanese.

So do the Afghans, Albanians, Ethiopians, Icelanders and the forty-nine other peoples invited to attend the function.

Sensible Americans, who have voted by overwhelming majorities against foreign entanglements, know it, too.

This is fortunate. Only a few sentimentalists will be surprised when our shotgun bride becomes a grass widow.

Regarding Einstein

The World Is Wondering Just What Is the Significance of His New Theory

Suspecting something significant in Einstein's recent publication of a new theory establishing a relation between gravitation and electro-magnetism, a large part of the world is wondering just what that significance is.

The most interesting suggestion as to a practical application of the Einstein theory comes from a scientist who asks if the principle of insulation will work in the field of gravitation.

There is a sensational hypothesis to stimulate the most extravagant imagination of a modern Jules Verne!

Insulate a human being against the force of gravitation. His method of locomotion will become almost bird-like. Instead of taking steps of three feet he will find himself in seven-league boots. He will walk ten or twenty miles with less exertion than he now walks one. Stairs will offer no obstacle. He will "flit" up them.

Provide insulation against gravitation for freight cars. Burdens of commerce will move speedily and cheaply over long distances. Railroads will build no more tunnels. Insulate the heavier-than-air plane and man will be more supreme in the air than the eagle.

Is this but the absurdity of ignorance concerning the laws of physics? Einstein says the physicists will object to his theory because its demonstration is mathematical rather than physical.

Science has already shown a "miracle" in this field. It is a piece of metal floating in the air without visible support. It is suspended above a magnetic field and its vibratory rate abhors that of the magnetic field.

The idea of a force counter to gravitation is not new. The gyroscope merely by its high speed revolution develops some opposition to gravitation.

The source of energy was not long since supposed to be within the sidereal system as far as man could detect it. Then Professor Milliken went out and grabbed the cosmic ray.

If there were any definite conclusions as to how the Einstein theory may affect the life of man they must come from those who are actually exploring the realm beyond the boundaries of present physical science.

One More Attempt

Fitzmaurice and Koehl Will Try Refueling in Air on Their New Flight

Any flight planned over the Atlantic Ocean is bound to stir public interest, but the proposed expedition of Fitzmaurice and Koehl possesses especial importance. If they succeed, they will be the first men to make two Atlantic crossings by airplane. Further, they will be the first to demonstrate the practicability of refueling air vessels in overland and oversea voyages.

They plan to leap from Berlin with a light load of gasoline and take on additional fuel at once from an airplane. At Lisbon they will take another tank full in the same fashion, and, if necessary, additional fuel will be supplied at the Azores islands. Fifty hours is the estimated time for the entire flight.

Fuel that will give more power and planes that will carry heavier loads are among the outstanding requirements of aviation just now. While awaiting the development of these—and lighter engines—the Irish-German team will have done much to supply a stopgap in the progress of flying by demonstrating the efficiency of refueling in air under all conditions. Such a feat would be the most substantial vindication possible for the achievement of our own Question Mark in the balmy California air.

Another War!

Dr. L. O. Howard, of the Department of Agriculture, predicts that another war, the greatest imaginable, is looming on the far horizon.

Looming? Why, doctor, it is upon us! We are fighting now! Take the flea, for instance—but no, he is too agile a creature to be taken so lightly. Consider the mosquito instead. Man virtually rendered him extinct in New Jersey a few years ago when it seemed likely that the insect would triumph and depopulate that State. The only way a mosquito can get into New Jersey now is through the Hudson tube or Holland tunnel.

The war is not over yet. We must conquer the caterpillars in the parks this Summer!

Energy Bullet Theory

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

RECENT efforts to reconcile the facts which support the new "quantum," or "energy-bullet," theory of light with those on which the old "wave" theory is based, have led to a very interesting situation. On the one hand there are phenomena which cannot be ignored, which seem inexplicable except on the assumption that light consists of minute waves conveyed by an invisible medium called the "ether," but on the other hand there are other phenomena which are thought to demonstrate that light is composed of discrete particles shot off like infinitestimal projectiles from luminous sources.

Superficially, this last hypothesis agrees with the idea that Newton had, but which was almost universally abandoned after the undulatory, or wave, theory had had a great number of "successes" in explaining observed phenomena. Even recently the most advanced science has felt compelled to continue to talk of "light-waves," even though it had lost faith in them. In which respect it is very human.

But in the sweep of the torrent of modern discoveries and researches, the two theories have stood over against one another like bridge towers in a flood. Each, with great strength and persistence has refused to yield for the other, and some have thought that both would go down together in the rushing waters.

But the advocates of either side, remembering, it might be supposed, the story of the union of the battling Sabines and Romans out of which grew the mighty empire of the Caesars, have preferred to combine their efforts in order to work out a reconciliation and a unification, whereby the strong points of each might be conserved and made to support one another.

The result is now beginning to appear and it seems full of promise. Both sides, of course, have had to make sacrifices—i. e., sacrifices of theory, not of fact. Each has been willing to look at the facts from a changed angle. On one side the fascinating picture of the "planetary atom" resembling a mimic solar system has been allowed to fade; on the other, cherished views of the characteristics of the "light-waves" have been modified.

At present we are offered this product of the combination: "While moving from one place to another light appears to spread out as waves, but when producing any physical effect it would materialize into discrete particles."

The man in the street, who is hatibually a very shrewd observer of the gist of things, as he has to be for safety, either physical or mental, will probably restate it thus: Light consists of waves of dust and when it hits the eye it is the dust, not the wave, that is effective.

It is for the researcher to discover what connects the particles, or "quanta," of light in such a way as to rally them into waves when they start out to cross space, to make them behave like "wave-fronts" when they turn corners, and so on. He will do it, be sure; but it will be done with mathematical symbols, whose asserted meaning the man in the street will have to accept on faith, unless he prefers to go back to school and study the thing from the bottom up. It is because so few can be made to see the necessity of this dilemma that so many are continually butting their heads against "simple explanations" of abstruse scientific theories, which are in fact about as informative as Tom Sawyer's explanation to Huck Finn of what made "the genies come tearing in, with thunder and lightning a-ripping around, ready to build a palace forty miles long out of diamonds, and to fetch an emperor's daughter from China," when an old tin lamp was rubbed.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

A MAN is always being "surprised" by a woman!

* * *

He is surprised when he finds himself engaged to her, surprised when he discovers that she has married him, and helplessly astonished when she finds him out. But he is positively DUMFOUNDED when she keeps her promise—and leaves him all alone in the world!

* * *

A woman's "talk" rolls right off a man's consciousness like rain off the roof. That is why he is always amazed and hurt when she ACTS.

* * *

The hardest thing in the world for a man to realize is that a woman really means it, when she says she is "through." He just can't BELIEVE that any woman would actually leave him to clean his own brushes, pick up his own pajamas, or sign his own letters, as long as she merely "threatens."

* * *

No matter how much "notice" his wife or his stenographer may give him, he never actually takes her seriously until he wakes up some morning and finds a note pinned to his wife's empty pillow—or his stenographer's desk closed and her sweater gone from the back of her chair.

His stenographer might give him daily "notice" for two years, instead of a mere two weeks, yet he wouldn't think of starting to hunt for another, until she was ready to put on her hat.

* * *

His wife may give him "warning," every other day, that she "is not going to stand it another 24 hours," yet he won't try to find out where she keeps the aspirin or the can-opener, until her baggage leaves the house.

* * *

And even after he has seen his wife's trunks go out of the door, or has watched his stenographer close her desk and walk out with battle in her eye—he still listens for her returning footsteps, in the fond belief that she will walk right back in again.

* * *

The truth is that no man can understand how a woman who has once loved him or worked for him, can ever STOP loving him or working for him, no matter WHAT he may do to dishearten her or torment her or worry her.

* * *

And he is never in the least surprised, when the woman who has "left him forever" calls him up next morning, and tells him that she is taking the next train back!

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I HAVE been watching some grass grow in my back-yard.

It started to grow under a piece of cement. The cement was a stubborn half-inch in thickness—the grass was a green whisper. The grass was inconceivably frail. But today the cement is broken in two and through the crack the grass lifts sturdy green blades.

That is the greatest lesson in the power of faith I have ever had.

I do not mean that the grass THOUGHT its way through that piece of cement or broke the cement by its spiritual BELIEF.

But THERE WAS AN URGE WHICH WOULD NOT BE DENIED in those delicate shoots—

There was an urge which was stronger than dynamite—

Which literally blasted away the obstacles which lay before it —

THE URGE OF LIFE—

THE WILL TO BE.

We think of faith as an attitude of mind—

A vague, visionary, dreary wishfulness—

That's a sick, wishy-washy way to think about faith.

That's why more people don't believe in faith and release its power in their lives.

Faith isn't a dreamy wishfulness—

It's as real as bone and blood and breath—

As gripping as the tingling of our nerves and the flexing of our muscles—

As powerful as dynamite to blast away the obstacles which lie before it.

Grass is grass and men are men but the same mystery moves through both the grass and men—THE MYSTERY OF LIFE—

THE WILL TO BE.

The thing that broke its way through cement for the grass will break its way through pain and poverty and fear and oppression for a man.

"ASK AND IT SHALL BE GIVEN YOU. SEEK AND YE SHALL FIND," said Jesus of Nazareth.

That's true. The grass with all the fury of the Springtime sap asked for room to grow, sought for room to grow, and found it.

A man with all the fury of faith may ask for happiness and health and power and also find them.

BUT HE MUST ASK AS THE GRASS ASKED—WITH ALL THE FORCE OF HIS LIVING SPIRIT BACKING THE DEMANDS, AND WHILE HE ASKS, HE MUST HURL HIMSELF AGAINST THE THING THAT BINDS HIM.

"That isn't true," you say, "I've often prayed for things and they didn't come true. I prayed to be a writer, and it didn't come true. I prayed for my brother to live and it didn't come true."

Well, I guess there are reasonable and unreasonable prayers, my friend.

It seems to me that faith works as long as it is a reasonable faith—as long as it demands something which really belongs to us—which doesn't tie up with some other life.

That grass could will to get through the cement. It had a right to get through the cement. And it got through the cement.

But it couldn't will to change itself into a turnip. Just as you can't will to be a writer if you were designed to be a carpenter.

Nor could it will to save the life of the pine tree above it. The life and death of that pine tree were the pine tree's business—not the grass's.

There's a law for faith as there is a law for everything else and we must keep within that law. But don't worry about that. For one thing which you CAN'T do through faith there are a MILLION THINGS YOU CAN DO.

Let yourself go—let yourself believe—let faith shoot its dynamite through your body and spirit. Then watch the cement break before you!

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

GREEN leaves, red petals flaunted so proudly in the sun, by chilling winds undaunted when rose's reign is done! Although it would be treason to name you queen of flowers, you rule the winter season in leafless garden bowers. A spirit gay and flaming incarnadines your bloom; so vital, it is claiming escape from winter's doom. Poinsettia, bravely greeting with bloom the days unkind when all frail things, retreating would flee the cruel wind. When gardens would be cheerless, stripped bare of song and flower, your beauty, proud and fearless, gives them this crimson dower!

NEW YORK Day by Day

—By O. O. McIntyre—

NEW YORK, Feb. 26—Street begging in New York is becoming one of the memories. It is so long ago I cannot recall when ast accosted by one of those shuffling moochers who sidled up with his whining: "Hey, Jack, gotta quarter for a cup of cawfee?"

New York, especially Broadway and Fifth ave., was once lined somewhat in the fashion of the Appian Way with beggars. Mendicancy became a specialized profession by which the worthless reaped an amazing harvest. It was not fiction many owned bank accounts and real estate.

Newspapers frequently carried stories of tatterdemalions picked up by the police with rolls of bills pinned in rags. And there was that exposure of the famous legless beggar who propelled himself up and down the avenue on a portable platform stirring the town.

He was discovered in an expensive apartment in a first-class hotel, supporting a limousine with chauffeur. His wardrobe as well as that of his wife, was the finest, and at night he donned artificial limbs and fared forth to cafes and theatres.

For years in the glitter of Times sq. stood "Crying Mary," a hooded Niobe, who had control of tear ducts and wept at will. When she died she left property in New Jersey valued at several hundred thousand. Also "Blue Pete," seared by a premature powder blast, who picked up a fortune selling pencils.

The most adroit of the mendicants selected after-theater crowds for their pillage. The "dummy chucker" waited under the theater marquee and at opportune moments pounced upon a planted crust of bread in the gutter and devoured it rapidly, while gullibles tossed a shower of coins.

The lady "faint thrower" in tatters swooned and her handsomely dressed accomplice revived her and thrust a generous bill in her hand, thus inspiring onlookers to follow her lead. There are still beggars, but comparatively few, and they are for the most part the hopelessly crippled, who are thoroughly deserving.

ONE of Park Row's unprinted stories concerns a murderer in a sensational case. It was told a reporter one night by a lawyer in his cups who came to his sober senses early enough next morning to beg the reporter to forget it. The reporter did. The murderer had sent for his wife and the lawyer. When they reached his darkened cell he implored his wife to come to the door and kiss him. As she approached, he struck at her in a maniacal fury with an iron rod taken from his cot. Only a cross bar which it struck saved her from instant death. The blow was with such force the murderer's hands were completely benumbed for 24 hours.

THE finest hunting preserve hereabouts is maintained by Irving Berlin's papa-in-law, the dapper Mr. Clarence Mackay, on the east end of Long Island. Six thousand pheasants are raised every year, and among other game treasures are waterfowl, woodcock and deer. Others with private hunting grounds are Bernard Baruch, Jacob Ruppert, Arthur Iselin, Edward Hutton and M. R. Guggenheim. Game keepers are experienced men imported from Scotland and are paid fat salaries.

A HAT store proprietor tells me most men who wear small sizes want to keep it a big secret, like the words of "The Star-Spangled Banner." When asked their size they usually say they do not know. That is easy to understand. Every time I buy a No. 14¼ collar for myself I act as though it was for someone else.

THERE is something completely withering about the look a clerk gives you when you inform him your collar size is No. 14¼. You rather feel you will never be invited to Palm Beach as guest of Herbert Bayard Swope.

STILL I know one of the Greek gods with a No. 17 collar and a No. 7¾ hat and John Barrymore profile who has failed at every job he tackled, including that of a demonstrator for cubeb cigarettes in a drug store window. And almost anybody, even with a 10½ collar and a chinless profile, should be able to fill that one.
